

BLAST TRAPS 90 IN MINE; MANY DEAD

"GET OUT," TURK COMMAND TO ALLIES

BODIES AND INJURED ARE BROUGHT UP

Early Morning Explosion Fatal To Many Pennsylvania Workers

Spangler, Pa. — The first rescue party to enter the Reilly coal mine after the explosion Monday reported at noon that they had found three bodies and feared that some, if not all of the other 90 men entombed, are dead.

The rescue party entered the mine under the direction of Superintendent O. J. Flanagan and had proceeded to the third entry on the right of the main entry when they came upon the bodies. The dead miners were brought to the foot of the shaft and the party went back for further exploration.

The rescuers came to the surface after their second trip into the mine but declined to give out any further information.

MEN VOLUNTEER

A second rescue party immediately went into the workings. The rescuers were composed of volunteers chosen from hundreds of men who had gathered at the shaft. Shortly before the second crew went underground word was received that the rescue car would arrive early Monday afternoon.

Silent groups of wretched women and children huddled together close to the mouth of the shaft mutely awaiting a gleam of hope from the miners who went down to search for their husbands and fathers. A steady stream of men came up from the mine, many of them bare headed, paid little attention to the weather.

After the first rescuers came up some of the groups moved toward the company's offices, expecting that an announcement would be made. The rescue party immediately conferred with company officials regarding the mass of debris which had halted their progress. One of the rescuers said he thought a fourth body had been found.

IDENTIFY BODIES

The first two bodies removed from the shaft were identified as Thomas Logue and Joseph Fritz.

Shortly after these bodies were removed two living miners fearfully burned, were brought up and rushed to a hospital. They were unconscious and their recovery is regarded as doubtful.

The fan house was destroyed by fire which flashed from the explosion and this fact caused miners to fear that the entombed men quickly were smothered.

Owing to the volume of gas in the mine, the rescuers worked in relays and replacements were necessary at brief intervals.

Mine officials said the number of men in the workings was less than usual because Monday is a light working day.

The rescuers brought two more bodies and two more unconscious and badly burned miners to the surface a few minutes after the first victims had been removed. The dead are John Planto and Michael Surick.

REGARDED SAFE

The Reilly mine was regarded as nongaseous and the miners worked with open lamps. The explosion was so terrific that the machinery in the fan house was blown from its foundation.

Poul air quickly filled the mine and rescuers reported great difficulty in making progress toward the section where the main body of miners were trapped.

RUSH RESCUE CAR

Cresson, Pa. — The special mine rescue train from Pittsburgh arrived here at 12:45 o'clock and departed for Spangler on a clear track.

When the special left here the members of the rescue force were donning their equipment and intended to dash from the train and into the mine immediately upon arrival.

The rescuers received a report here that 23 bodies had been taken from the mine.

BLAINE URGES AID FOR STATE EXPOSITION

Madison — Governor J. J. Blaine Monday issued a proclamation urging all the people of Wisconsin to cooperate in making the Wisconsin Product exposition to be held in Milwaukee Dec. 14 to 20, a success "to the end that the fame of Wisconsin, its products, its people, its spirit and its enterprise may be further enhanced."

STUDENT, ON WAY TO GAME, KILLED

By Associated Press

Madison — Belief was expressed here by members of a party of University of Wisconsin students who journeyed to the Wisconsin-Minnesota game Saturday, that George B. Lilly, a former student, whose body was found on railroad tracks near Stockton, Minn. Saturday had been accidentally killed by a train.

Lilly, who lived at LaCrescent, Minn., left the automobile party with which he was traveling at Utica when their machine broke down. He was supposed to have started for his home. Later his body was found badly mangled on the tracks near Stockton.

Over $40, in cash was found in Lilly's clothes, dispelling the belief that he might have been intentionally killed and robbed.

WHOLE NATION LOOKS TOWARD 9TH DISTRICT

Hottest Congressional Campaign In History Will End Monday Night

All Wisconsin, and to a large extent, the entire nation will look forward to the Ninth congressional district on Tuesday when the hottest political campaign in the history of the state comes to a close. Starting long before the primary, the battle has been carried into every home in the district. Speakers have invaded nearly every hamlet and the air has been filled with oratory and sometimes with acrimony.

Supporters of Judge Henry Graess, independent candidate, and George J. Schneider, regular Republican nominee, are confident of success as the campaign ends. Their claims conflict considerably, both declaring they will carry the same counties.

The sharpest fight has been in Outagamie, Door and Kewaunee counties. Outagamie-co is a recognized Schneider stronghold while Door and Kewaunee counties have been largely for Graess. A determined fight also was waged in Brown-co and both factions are claiming majorities there.

The only contested election in Outagamie-co is between John E. Hanschel, Democratic Independent, and Herman J. Kamps, Republican, for county clerk. Both factions have carried on a strenuous campaign and it is believed the election will be close.

Never before has there been so much political discussion as this year. Nearly every person in Outagamie-co has taken sides in the Graess-Schneider and Hanschel-Kamps battles and argument is as common as the air.

Judge Graess, early in his campaign, instructed his supporters that they must not descend to attacks on his opponent or his supporters to win the election. The campaign must be fought out on Judge Graess and the issues, the judge said. He said he would not countenance attacks of any kind on his opponent and the judge's supporters have been careful to follow those instructions.

Mr. Schneider wound up his campaign in Brown-co Sunday night and Judge Graess will deliver his final address at a mass meeting in Green Bay Monday night.

BUY WISCONSIN LAND FOR BOYS' GIRLS' CAMP

By Associated Press

Eagle River, Wis. — New York men have purchased 1,600 acres at Harris lake near Winchester in the northwestern part of Vilas-co and will establish a large summer recreation camp for boys and girls. Warren T. Bullock, formerly of Milwaukee, who for many years has owned a private lodge near State Line, is among those interested in the project. It is said that the camp will be able to accommodate more young people than any yet in this region.

Freight Car Disabled

A drawbar was pulled out of a freight car loaded with pulpwood at North Division-st crossing Sunday night, making it necessary to set the car out on a sidetrack. The accident was the third of its kind that has occurred between Appleton Junction and Appleton station within the last two weeks.

Kaiser On Honeymoon, Aber Wohin?

By Associated Press

Doorn — The former German emperor and his bride, Princess Hermine of Reuss, began their honeymoon Monday with no place to go. They were married Sunday at the house of Doorn where the one time Kaiser spends his hours in exile and there they remain Monday.

The ceremonies that united them, both civil and religious, were witnessed by 28 guests and were kept from the sight of the villagers of Doorn and a host of correspondents and camera men with a secrecy that was both studied and mysterious.

BRIDEGROOM BOOED

To many of the curious groupings who pecked through the gate and the hedges at the bridal party as they entered and left the gate lodge of the state where the civil ceremony was performed, William was just a poor unfortunate target for quips and bores.

Some of the devout Sabbatarian villagers thought it was simply awful that the exile of Doorn selected Sunday as his wedding day. And a few of them looked with disfavor upon him becoming a bridegroom within 13 months after the death of the woman who shared his glories and his sorrows, the former Empress Augusta Victoria.

NUPTIALS MEET DISFAVOR

Several of the children of that first union saw their father married but the wife of the former crown prince did not accompany her husband to Doorn as the nuptials met with her disfavor.

William began his wedding breakfast at 9 o'clock. Soon the guests began to arrive, at 11:30 the civil ceremony was started in the lodge where Hermine had spent the night. The register signed and other details cared for, the wedding party went up the winding path of the castle where the religious ceremony was carried out in the main hall. Then came the reception in the smoking room followed by a luncheon at which the bride and bridegroom sat at the head of an oblong table.

William wore the full dress uniform of the imperial guards. From both castle and lodge the black and white Hohenzollern banner fluttered. But beyond the limits of the estate no manifestations of popular rejoicing were to be seen or heard.

15 PUPILS OF HIGH SCHOOL WIN HONORS

Fifteen students of Appleton High school had their names upon the honor roll for scholarships on Monday. The report cards were given out with the grades for the second quarter of school. The "A" honor students who made grades of 93 or more in four subjects were Miss Dorothy Murphy and Aiden Behnke from the senior class, Carl Thompson from the junior class, Miss Elizabeth Earle and Everett Roudelush from the sophomore class and Miss Mary Louise Wrase from the freshman class.

The "B" honor students were the Misses Helen Dierich and Leona Paulding from the senior class, Miss Louise Kreiss from the junior class, Misses Viola Beckman, Mae Eiler, Dorothy Engler and Ethel Radtke from the sophomore class and the Misses Virginia Brooks and Tone Steenis from the freshman class. These students had 93 or higher in three studies. There were as many boys as girls in the A honor list but the entire B Honor list was girls. The sophomore class had more honor students than the freshman class and the junior class put together.

MRS. HOOPER WILL TALK HERE TONIGHT

Jessie Jack Hooper, Democrat Independent candidate for United States senator, will end her strenuous speaking campaign tonight with an address in Lawrence Memorial chapel. Mrs. Hooper is one of the three women who are seeking election to the nation's highest deliberative body. She is an excellent speaker who is not afraid to say what she thinks.

Supporters to Mrs. Hooper are endeavoring to have a large crowd on hand to greet her. An especial appeal is being made to women to turn out and see how a member of their sex conducts herself in a political campaign.

VOTE EARLY IS DUTY OF EVERY LOYAL CITIZEN

Polls in Appleton Open At 6 In The Morning And Close At 8 At Night

The city of Appleton is preparing for one of the largest votes ever recorded in the polls here. This situation exists in spite of the fact that most of the Republican candidates for state and county offices are already practically elected, they being opposed mostly by Prohibition and Socialist candidates. Democratic candidates who failed to qualify as nominees in the primaries are listed in the Independent column of the official ballot. The greatest interest centers in the election of a congressman and county clerk.

No change has been made in the location of the polling places in the city since the primary election. There are two precinct stations for each of the six wards. Only those electors who are registered will be permitted to vote. Electors who are in doubt as to whether the registry boards have recorded their names should appear at the polls, in spite of the fact that they were not able to come personally to register on registration days.

VOTE EARLY IN DAY

Voters are urged to appear at the polls as early as possible to cast their ballots. By this means they will be able to overcome the usual congestion near closing time. There is usually a lull in voting in the forenoon and parts of the afternoon. The polls will be open from 6 o'clock in the morning until 8 o'clock in the evening, while county precinct polls will be open from 9 to 3:30. Workmen who pass near the polls on their way to work should vote then. Business men and office employees should especially take advantage of the hours before work. But those who can help most to relieve the congestion are the women, according to E. L. Williams, city clerk.

In the primaries some of the polling places were so crowded at closing time that from 50 to 200 persons were in line. Women should not wait for their husbands to return from work, but should endeavor in some way to leave their homes for a few minutes during the day, preferably in the morning, the city clerk advised.

If these instructions are not followed it is possible that some people who delay to the last minute will lose their vote besides causing others to lose theirs. According to the rules, any person who is in line by 8 o'clock in the evening will have a chance to vote, regardless of the time. But he must be in line before 8 o'clock. Officers will be stationed at the precincts to see that rules are enforced. Any person who fails in line after 8 o'clock will be subject to arrest.

BOOZE FLATTENS TWO MEN OVER WEEKEND

Two men were knocked out over the weekend. Strong drink floored Bert Reese and Henry Schaffelke Saturday and Sunday and later in municipal court each was relieved of $5 and costs. The costs do not include the price of the liquor however.

Schaffelke was found by officer Samuel Ford lying in a drunken stupor Saturday evening at the rear of a house at Pacific and Drew-sts. Reese was arrested by Officer Ford Sunday at the corner of College-ave and Superior-sts. They were arraigned and fined in court Monday morning.

Here Is Your Chance To Add Boy To Family

A pretty brown eyed baby boy is looking for a home with a nice family. The tiny lad is only two months old and is of nice parentage, but it is necessary to find a home for him other than with his parents. Information concerning the wee lad can be had from Mrs. Mildred Gardner, the policeman, by calling her residence phone, 3210.

A short time ago a baby was advertised in the Post-Crescent and 15 people made inquiry about the baby. The little boy who is now waiting for foster parents would make a nice small son for any of these people. The child is perfectly healthy and may be had at once.

Swamp Soon To Be Good Farm Land

Ashtand — Fourteen thousand acres of land comprising the Bibon swamp, 35 miles southwest of Ashtand, between Mason and Grand View, is to be drained and converted into the finest kind of farming land if the drainage project now under way is carried through. The ultimate cost will be about $134,000 which will be an expense of about $10 an acre.

The project involves the purchase of the dam at Mason, and the digging of several long ditches. Preliminary surveying was done several years ago, but legal obstacles intervened. A new commission is expected to make material progress during the next few months.

The swamp is supposed to be the largest peat bed in northern Wisconsin. In ditching the public highway through a portion of the swamp two years ago, it was found that the ditch passed through a bed of solid peat, a mile long. The same conditions prevail wherever excavations have been made. The land, formerly considered valueless, is a solid mass of black vegetable mold and peat, and small portions which have been drained produce heavy crops.

FARM LAND BANK BRANCH FORMED BY FARMERS HERE

$200,000 In Loans Recommended At Initial Meeting Saturday

Representative farmers and businessmen of the community, at a meeting Saturday afternoon, organized the Appleton Farm Loan association, a branch of the Federal Land bank at St. Paul, Minn. The new organization will serve all of Outagamie and Winnebago counties and parts of Winnebago and Brown counties.

Applications for loans aggregating more than $100,000 were recommended to the Federal Land bank for approval. A number of other applications for loans were submitted but not action could be taken.

Officers of the new association are George R. Schaefer, president; A. C. George, vice president; William J. Konrad, Jr., secretary and treasurer. The directors are Mr. Schaefer, Mr. Brusewitz, Lawrence Pierce, William Manning and N. J. Lesselyong.

This is considered an opportunity for farmers who wish to obtain loans at a reasonable rate of interest on easy terms of repayment. Money is loaned for the purpose of liquidating existing indebtedness, building new buildings and for stocking and equipping of farms. The organization was effected through the efforts of John J. Sherman, president of Citizens National Bank of Appleton, who has had this matter under consideration for some time and was instrumental in getting a number of farmers to meet W. S. Arnold, federal appraiser for the St. Paul Land Bank. It is believed the association will bring considerable money into the community by connecting the investors and the borrowers, whereby the farmers can get long time loans on easy terms and the investors tax free government instrumentalities in the form of $100,000 and $1,000 bonds.

Dr. Olmstead was considered one of the most prominent physicians in Wisconsin. He came to this state with his parents in 1850 from Vermont, settling in Green Bay in 1874. His name was identified with the activities of the medical profession of Wisconsin since that time, especially with the Wisconsin state and the American homeopathic societies.

WANTED; MAN, GOOD LEADER, --APPLY U. S.

Harding Following Dilatory Ways Of Congress, Says Lawrence

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — President Harding is today in midstream with the tide of his own party running against him. Personally popular, respected and esteemed, Mr. Harding has failed to convince many of the influential leaders of the Republican party that he has made the best use of his opportunities in the last two years. They are not ready to say he shall not be nominated for a second term in 1924 — they are sympathetic with any effort he may make in the next two years to retrieve his mistakes, and they wish him success because they would rather nominate him than face a contest inside the party, but the prevailing impression is that Mr. Harding is not sufficiently aggressive, not possessed of enough initiative to lead the party in these, its most trying years of regeneration.

COUNTRY WANTS LEADER

For the Republican party is in process of evolution. Leadership never was more essential. The nation is aching to be led — it is tired of following will-o'-the-wisp politicians and it is even more tired of congress and its dilatory ways.

"We voted in 1920," said one Republican editor, "to do away with the dictatorship of Woodrow Wilson but we didn't expect the pendulum to swing back the other way altogether. We must have one-man leadership."

VETO POPULAR ACT

And that expresses the sentiment of most Republican leaders with whom the writer has talked — they think Mr. Harding has made his greatest mistake by allowing congress to run its own course without regard to the best interests of the party. As in illustration of this point, Republican chieftains without exception, and dozens of editors, unanimously agree that Mr. Harding's veto of the bonus was the most popular act of his administration. Why? Because he took the bit in his teeth and did a courageous thing in a political year. Because he followed his convictions. Even many who think he was unwise to veto the soldier bonus bill concede his courage.

The thing which hurt Mr. Harding more than anything else was his attitude during the rail and coal strike. There is a feeling that he waited too long before bringing pressure to bear on the coal miners and operators. There is also a widespread notion that Mr. Harding wobbled in handling the shopmen's strike. Many in his own party will never forgive him for being willing to restore seniority rights to the strikers and a great many more — for laboring men are more numerous than employers — will never forgive him for permitting the attorney general to apply the injunction process to labor.

In looking for 1924 there are Republicans who think there are other men in the party of more commanding personality than Mr. Harding. They say again and again they hope the president will not run — that he will voluntarily withdraw — "I guess he's tired of the job anyhow," is the comment the leaders usually make.

Irrespective of how one feels about the merits of the questions uppermost in the public mind, the fact is the country will demand that an impressive start, at least, be made on the following problems:

First, the government's relation to agricultural credit must be most positive and helpful.

Second, the inequitable phases of the tariff must be removed and the elastic provisions of the law actually applied.

Third, further reductions in taxes must be made and this means corresponding cuts in government expenditures.

Fourth, whether by insurance certificates or some other plan the bonus sentiment of the soldiers and sailors and their friends cannot be ignored. If it cannot be satisfied, it must be placated. The veto of the bonus bill merely postponed solution of the problem.

Fifth, America's policy is not satisfying the thoughtful members of any political party. Far from seeking American participation in the League of Nations — the writer rarely heard music and a brief talk on boy's ideals by Leonard Henrikson. The meeting was the first of a series which will be held each Sunday afternoon until the end of the year.

BLAME MICE FOR FIRE IN OFFICE OF DR. BROOKS

Blaze Is Discovered Sunday Night—Extinguish Rubbish Fire

Mice gnawing into a box of matches in a cupboard are believed to have been responsible for the fire which ruined the entire rear office of Dr. F. H. Brooks, 808 College-ave, Sunday evening.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the rooms were filled with smoke and the fire department was summoned. Walls of the office were charred and the furniture was ruined. Chemicals were used to extinguish the fire. Losses were estimated at several hundred dollars.

On Saturday shortly after noon, the department answered an alarm to the home of Herman Krueger, 586 Main-st, where rubbish in the basement had caught fire. It was extinguished with chemicals and very little damage was done.

U. S. TARGET OF INTERNATIONAL

By Associated Press

Petrograd — "The persecution of Communists in the United States" was the subject of wide discussion Monday among the delegates to the third international which opened its fourth annual congress here Sunday.

Zinovieff, the Soviet Central committee told the delegates that in the United States the bourgeoisie did not hesitate to sentence Communists to prison from 15 to 20 years for merely adhering to their cause.

The chief aim of the communists in the future, he said, will be to fight all other Socialist parties. He said he considered them as the reactionary force of international bourgeoisie.

"We guarantee the proletariat that sooner or later we shall bring him to the expected goal," he said. "Russian workers impatiently await to see the first spark of the uprising blaze in other countries."

NOTE JOLTS WORLD; FEAR MORE TROUBLE

Troops Must Leave Constantinople, Is Nationalists' Command

By Associated Press

Constantinople — The Turkish Nationalists after overthrowing the sultans' government and declaring him bereft of all his civil power, are now seeking fresh conquests in a manner that may bring about trouble with Allies.

Sunday night, after taking over control of Constantinople, the Nationalists demanded withdrawal of the Allied troops from the city and served notice that Allied or American sailors would not be permitted to land from their warship at Kemal ports except by special permission of the Ankara government. An extraordinary meeting of the Allied commissioners quickly assembled to decide what stand they should take in the quickly altered situation determined that they would refuse categorically the demand for military evacuation of Constantinople. Along with the demand for the departure of Allied troops, the Turkish Nationalist government in an additional note handed to the Allied commissioners by Hamid Bey, asked that the Turkish railways in Europe and Asia, which are under temporary Allied control, be handed over to the Ankara government immediately.

OCCUPY NEUTRAL GROUND

Over the weekend the Nationalist backed up against the Allies not only through written notes but with a show of physical power as well. With a seeming disregard for the agreements in the Mudania convention that recently brought an end to armed hostilities in the Near East, Turkish gendarmes have now moved into areas known as neutral.

They are advancing into the Chanak area where only a few weeks ago the British dug themselves in to prevent violation of neutrality in that district. At Brugas, a few miles from the Dardanelles, the Kemalists have established an administration.

In Ankara the religious committee of the assembly is hurriedly trying to choose the person it considers most qualified to ascend the Osman throne as Caliph in the view of the Nationalists and Rafet Pasha has served notice that any attack against his person would be regarded as an offense against the Muslim religion.

SOLDIERS DEFEND SULTAN

Sunday tens of thousands swarmed in the streets near the Tildiz palace, where the sultan is ensconced, and many hurled vile epithets at the tottering ruler hidden behind the walls of the imposing building. Armed Allied soldiers formed a human screen around the palace to prevent the surging masses from getting too close to the place where the sultan resides.

The welter of week end charges in the control of Constantinople has brought about great consternation and turmoil. All the Christians seem in great fear of a massacre.

The Turkish populace in Stamboul and other quarters of the sublime porta has for two days and two nights been celebrating the change in government. At one time the demonstrations became so wild and so potentially dangerous that Allied soldiers had to fire upon the mobs to disperse them. Several Turks were killed by these shots.

POSTPONE MEETING

London — As a result of the new situation created in Constantinople by the demand of Rafet Pasha, that the Allied military occupation of the city cease, the peace conference called to be held at Lausanne Nov. 15, has been postponed possibly for a fortnight it was announced here Monday.

It is stated in authoritative circles that under no circumstances will the British point of view regarding the presence of Allied troops in Constantinople be changed. The British intend to uphold the Mudania armistice agreement and remain in the neutral zone with their troops.

BAR SHIP PASSAGE

Constantinople — The Turkish Nationalist government has handed a note to the Allied high commissioners here to the effect that the warships of all nations must ask it for authorization to pass the straits of the Dardanelles, the Havis correspondent here has been informed. They must also salute the new government of Turkey.

Toyland Will Have Many New Appeals For Kiddies

New Dolls For Girls And Trairns For Boys Will Make Eyes Glisten

The Christmas season with its air of festivity and many surprises is the most joyous time of the year for the kiddies. They just love to spend hours in "toyland" and wish they had this or that, and then when Christ mas morning dawns bright and crisp, how delighted they are if they discover some of their wishes have come true.

New kings of toys appear among the old at the toy stores with the return of the holidays each year. Dolls will never grow old as long as there are little girls to play with them and the more life-like they can be made the better they are enjoyed. The newest arrival in the doll family is the new talking doll made entirely of cloth which because of its sturdy construction, may be more thoroughly enjoyed than if it were of delicate china and had to make frequent trips to the hospital. Some little Dutch children dressed in bright colored folk costumes have found their way to American stores and are waiting anxiously to find homes in the nurseries of Appleton's little folk.

Along with the dolls are her trunks, filled with dainty dresses, hats, undergar and real little leather shoes. This season she is to be as well dressed as her small mother for her wardrobe includes gloves of various colors and if her eyes are in clined to become tired with too much reading she may find a pair of small rumpled glasses, stowed away in her bag. As dolls become tired with too much walking home as any one else the mother have her buggy and the one and beauty of it depends only up on her purse.

Furniture for the play house or the nursery to be in style this year must be of need. Most of it comes in four piece sets which include a settee, rocking chair, a straight backed chair and a table. These may be obtained in sizes just large enough for the big doll or mistress herself. Pianos for young misters are no longer in demand so music boxes are expected to take their place. Every house must have a telephone and kitchen utensils are another necessity. Brooms, carpet sweepers, dust pans and aluminum dishes will take their place among the household toys in greatest demand.

Mechanical toys always will bring a thrill of delight from little brother who can play with them by the hour. Trains with a few feet of track will lead his imagination on until he finds himself on a thrilling journey miles from home. An immense Noah's Ark filled to its third story with animals will delight most any member of the family, young enough to imagine them real and how much fun may be had reacting the story of the Diluvial flood.

Games such as snap, rock, domi no, middle tee-winks, checkers, jack straws and fish ponds always will be popular. Ten pins seems again to be attracting attention, and ring toss is much like "thorpe game" ever which father is an enthusiastic. Jack straws and fish ponds are now oper ated by the use of magnets making them less more interesting as one doesn't have to fish all day to get a bite.

As a Christmas without books is not to be imagined, there are plenty to be found which are fascinating

MOSCOW COVERING UP SCARS OF REVOLUTION

Moscow—Putty and cement by the ton are being used in Moscow in an effort on the part of the government to blot out traces of the 1917 revolution.

There is scarcely a house in the Soviet capital which was not bullet marked, more or less, in the fighting, and some of the larger buildings were peppered with lead and steel from rifles, machine guns and shapnell. Within the last few weeks hundreds of workmen have been engaged in the task of filling the bullet holes with cement and putty, and in many instances the walls have been painted, thus wiping out the visible scars of the days of terror which swept the Bolshevik into power.

Farmers Wanted Rain The precipitation on Sunday caused no complaint among the farmers. The rain might have spoiled a few pleas ure trips, but farmers had been wait ing a long time for just that kind of a rainfall. It will materially help them with their fall plowing, as the ground had already become consider ably hard due to the long period of dry weather.

Ailing Children Get Well on Syrup Pepsin

A small dose at bedtime brings relief and laughter by morning

HOSPITAL and doctor's rec ords prove that 75 per cent of human illness has its origin in the intestinal canal, complicated with what is commonly called constipation. Realizing what that figure means, mothers should contrive methods of handling their children while they still control them that will prevent these future dan gers. Teach chil dren regularity of bowel movement, and be especially watchful of young girls. Insist on two passages a day until the age of 18, when one is usually sufficient. Give plenty of oranges and apples, plenty of butter because it lubricates the intes tines, and encourage the drinking of water.

If you detect restlessness, belch ing, gas or wind on the stomach, sleeplessness, or lack of appetite, examine the tongue and you will find it coated, accompanied by unpleasant breath. The child is bilious, constipated. According to age, give from one-half to a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which children never object to taking as they like the taste. By morning the youngster will be well again. Likewise if the nostrils are stuffed up or there is persistent sneezing, a dose of Syrup Pepsin will break up the fever and cold.

Mrs. Geo. N. Colson of Ber nard, Me., keeps her family well in that way, and Mrs. Ida A. Burkett of Carroll, La., who has been using Syrup Pepsin for a dozen years, has raised her three children on it. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a vegetable com pound of Egyptian senna and pepsin with agreeable aromatics. The formula, however, is on every package. Druggists have sold it with satisfaction to their customers for over 30 years, and it is now the largest selling family laxative in the world. Buy a bottle today. It will last you for months, and the cost is only about a cent a dose.

All the heavier work is finished. There only remain a few personal things for you to do at your leisure.

We call this our Rough Dry Service. Its reasonableness will please you. Phone us today—we'll have our repre sentative further explain this service.

I SPIED TODAY

Beginning with today, Monday, Nov. 6, all tickets issued for contributions to "I Spied Today" of The Post-Crescent will be for admissions to the ELITE THEATRE instead of Fischer's Appleton theatre. Persons now holding tickets good for admissions to Appleton theatre must present them this week. They will be void after next Saturday night, Nov. 11.

"I Spied Today" is one of the most popular features of The Post-Crescent and it desires to maintain a high standard in its items. A ticket, good for two admissions to the ELITE THEATRE for any performance except on Sunday will be given for every item printed in the section. Tickets may be obtained by calling at The Post-Crescent office after the items are printed.

The ELITE THEATRE offers motion pictures of the highest class. Manager Neil Duffy has arranged for a winter's program of pictures which will compare favorably with the best theatres in the state.

MUST BE LOST
Being awakened last night by a pitiful cry, I got out of bed and discovered a screech owl perched in front of my bedroom window. It surely gave me a ghostly feeling. F. Z.

STRANGE TO CITY'S WAYS
Saturday night as I was sitting in a ice cream parlor in the city, I observed a family entering and sitting down to a table next to me. The waitress served them with their glasses of water and while they were waiting for their order to be filled the man drank his glass of water and wanted more. He apparently wasn't wise to the ways of the city and started out to help himself at the fountain. He turned on the first faucet he saw and he waited. "Not that one," said the soda water faucet. "Use the other one." After some confusion the waitress finally served him with another glass of water. M. L.

COULDN'T BE DONE
It was a Packard truck from Oshkosh, a Northwestern train and a 1913 Ford. The train was going across College ave. the truck coming to a jerky stop and the Ford tried to run under the Packard without taking its radiator cap off. Result, one bent radiator shell and two broken lights. M. C.

ANOTHER CAT IN CHURCH
While I was in church last Sunday during the sermon a little black cat walked up to the altar. He walked along the railing and then sat on the window sill until a lady came and took him out. G. H. G.

A GOOD TURN
How prone we are to notice and remark about the other fellow's faults instead of his virtues. I was passing Lawrence college chapel just as a throng of students was crossing the street from chapel to classes. A man came along driving an auto. Instead of plowing his way through the crowd of students thus causing a break in the procession he stopped his car and waited for a thousand students to pass. J. B.

BET THEY ARE MARRIED
Two young people furnished an amusing bit of burlesque. Sunday noon while near Zuelke's Music Store the young lady, evidently in a hurry, was greatly annoyed and finally incensed by her escort's very evident desire to see all that was in the various windows. After a number of stops and starts, accompanied by some verbal "Hurry Ups" of the one part, and "Just wait a minute, come back here R— and see this" from the other, the lady flung off down the street at a great rate. The young man caught up with her after what was almost a chase and tried by affectionate methods to reconcile her. She refused to forgive, however, and they continued down the street, not closer together than the width of the sidewalk. He walked on the outside the rest of the way. D. R.

INVITE WOMEN TO LEGION MEETING

Matters of considerable importance will be discussed at a meeting of Oney Johnston post of American legion in Elk hall Monday evening. A program will follow the business session. Members of the women's auxiliary are invited to attend the meeting and program.

Final preparations probably will be made for the Armistice day banquet and program next Saturday evening.

A BAD SPILL
Thursday morning while traveling over Highway 18, a cheese box truck heavily loaded with boxes took a "spill" about one and one fourth miles east of Medina, where the caterpillar tractor is grading in the ravine. The driver got too close to the edge of the road and the truck slipped off and over it went. Cheese boxes were scattered right and left, but the driver was not injured. After taking off what boxes remained the caterpillar came to its aid and tipped the truck back on its wheels very easily. E. B. K.

GOT HIS REVENGE
Sunday on North st I saw a little dog have quite an experience with a street car. When I first saw him he was on the track in front of the car running for dear life. After about a half block of this he got off the track, sat down on the road and looked at the pursuing monster, then as if seeing his opportunity for revenge he chased the car, barking and making an awful "fuss." The car was going at a good rate so I suppose the dog imagined he was giving it an awful scare. M. H. Y.

THE MINISTER SMILED
Sunday morning while attending church services at Medina a black cat walked into the church marched on the aisle, jumped to the altar rail and walked from one end to the other. The cat's owner was present and tried to catch her, but without success. Finally a little boy captured the intruder and put her out. Even the minister smiled. E. B. K.

FORUM COLLECTION FAR UNDER EXPENSE

The impression that the receipts at public forum meetings, the first of which was held Sunday evening, are very large is erroneous. Fred Bachman, treasurer of the Forum organization, reports that exactly $39.37 was received in the silver collection. The collection consisted of six $1 bills, ten half dollars, 35 quarter dollars, the remainder being dimes, nickels and pennies. The collection Sunday night is not equal to general running expenses of the lectures, as the average expenses amount to more than double what was collected. A small attendance, due to the rain, was largely responsible for the small collection.

HE'LL INVESTIGATE NEXT TIME
Friday evening I saw an uncommonly amusing automobile accident. Just as I was passing a garage, I heard a loud crash. I turned and saw an automobile tearing its way thru two closed garage doors. The hinges were torn away and the doors were thrown over the top of the car. It went right on like a war tank until it crashed headlong into another car which stood about ten feet away. I ran over to investigate and then found the car had no driver. Evidently one of the repairmen tested the automatic starter and didn't know that it was in gear. J. C. H.

STAGE and SCREEN

New Stahl Production is Spectacular Drama
Henry B. Walthall, one of the first favorites of the screen will return in a feature role with the presentation of the First National attraction, "One Clear Call," at the Elite Theatre three days starting tomorrow. Associated with Mr. Walthall in this production are Milton Sills and Claire Windsor in the featured roles. "One Clear Call" is the third production emanating from the noted producer-director John M. Stahl for First National within recent months. The first two, "The Child Thou Gavest Me" and "The Song of Life," scored such stupendous successes.

throughout the country that Mr. Stahl declares he felt justified in putting every financial resource and skill he possessed behind his latest production.

For this purpose he secured the screen rights to the Francis Ximmo Green story and had Bees Mordey with the scenario. The picture calls for a large cast, expensive settings and spectacular mob scenes. In one instance, at least, several hundred riders are called upon to depict a night time foray of Ku Klux Klansmen. Action in the story centers around a small Alabama town where Henry Garnett, dissipated son of old Col. Garnett, has returned to the home town again. Among his old associates Dr. Alan Hamilton, a brilliant surgeon, is the only one who extends the hand of friendship. Suffering from physical ills young Garnett endures mental anguish because of the disappearance of his young wife, against whom he had committed no wrong, but who had left him solely because she disapproved of his method of living. Dr. Hamilton discovers that the woman he loves is the missing wife and in the dual conflict between love and loyalty the story finds one of its elements of interest. The picture has been given a superb production and teems with action in every reel.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES HONOR MR. KELLER

Gustave Keller, former postmaster, was guest of honor at the monthly dinner and business meeting of the Appleton Postoffice association Saturday evening.

Mr. Keller, in responding to congratulations on his membership in the order of St. Gregory, related the history of the order briefly. He complimented the postoffice employees as being in the greatest service of the nation and urged all to be true to their calling and to their country. Various committees made their regular reports. The dance committee is arranging for the time and place of the annual dance to be given by the association. It is hoped to give the dance some time in November.

CHAPTER II
When Stormont gently halted his horse it was dawn, and Eve, sagging against him with one arm around his neck, sat huddled up on her saddle fast asleep.

In a birch woods, on the eastern slope of the divide, stood the log camp, dimly visible in the silvery light of early morning.

Darragh, cautioning Stormont, with a slight gesture, went forward, mounted the rustic veranda, and knocked at a lighted window.

A man already dressed, came and peered at him, then hurried to open the door.

"I didn't know you, Captain Darragh," he began, but fell silent under the warning gesture that checked him.

"I've a guest outside. She's Clinch's stepdaughter, Eve Strayer. She knows me by the name of Hal Smith. Do you understand?"

"Yes, sir—"

"Cut that out, too. I'm Hal Smith to you, also. State Trooper Stormont is out there with Eve Strayer. He was a comrade of mine in Russia. I'm Hal Smith to him, by mutual agreement. Now do you get me, Ralph?"

"Sure Hal. Go on; spit it out!"

"You're a hotch runner," said Darragh. "This is your shack. The Hatchery is only a blind. That's all you have to know, Ralph. So put that girl into my room and let her sleep till she wakes of her own accord."

"Stormont and I will take two of the guest bunks in the L. And for heaven's sake make us some coffee when you make your own."

"But first, come out and take the horse."

"They went out together. Stormont lifted Eve out of the saddle. She did not wake. Darragh led the way into the log house and along a corridor to his own room."

"Turn down the sheets," whispered Stormont. "And when the bed was ready, can you get a bath towel, Jim?"

Darragh fetched one from the connecting bathroom.

"When it around her wet hair," whispered Stormont. "Good heavens, I wish there were a woman here!"

"I wish you were a woman here," said Darragh. "She's chilled to the bone. You'll have to wake her. She can't sleep in what she's wearing; it's almost as damp as her hair."

He went to the closet and returned with a man's morning robe, as soft as fleece.

"Somehow or other she's got to get into that," he said.

There was a silence.

"Very well," said Stormont, red dening. "If you'll step out I'll manage it." He looked Darragh straight in the eyes. "I have asked her to marry me," he said.

When Stormont came out a great fire of birchlogs was blazing in the living room, and Darragh stood there, his elbow on the rough stone mantel shelf.

Stormont came straight to the fire and set one spurred boot on the fender.

"She's warm and dry and sound asleep," he said. "I'll wake her again if you think she ought to swallow something hot."

At that moment the fish-culturist came in with a pot of steaming coffee.

"This is my friend Ralph Wier," said Darragh. "I think you'd better give Eve a cup of coffee. And to Wier. Fill a couple of hot water bags, old chap. We don't want any pneumonia in this house."

Then he went into his own quarters to read two letters which, conforming to arrangements made with Mrs. Ray the day he had robbed Emanuel Sard, were to be sent to Trout Lodge to await his arrival.

Both, written from the Ritz, bore the date of the day before, the first he opened was from the Countess Orloff Strelitz.

"Dear Captain Darragh,"

"Your messenger with the ten thousand dollars which you say you already have recovered from those miscreants who robbed Russia, came aboard our ship before we landed. It was a godsend; we were nearly penniless—and oh, so shabby!"

"Instantly, my friend, we shopped. Russia and I Fifth Avenue enchained us. All manner was forgotten in the magic of that paradise for women."

"Furthermore, dear Captain Darragh, we are hastening to follow your instructions. We are leaving today for your chateau in the wonderful forest, of which you told us that never-to-be-forgotten day in Russia.

"Your agent is politeness, consideration and kindness itself. We have our accommodations. We New York at midnight."

"Ricca is so excited that it is difficult for her to restrain her happiness. God knows the child has seen enough unhappiness to quench the gaiety of anybody."

"Well, all things end. Even tears. Even the Red Terror shall pass from our beloved Russia. For, after all, Monsieur, God still lives."

"Valentine."

"P. S. Ricca has written to you. I have read the letter. I have let it go uncensored."

Darragh went to the door of his room.

"Ralph! Ralph!" he called. And when Wier hurriedly appeared: "What time does the midnight train from New York get into Five Lakes?"

"A little before nine—"

"You can make it in the flivver, can't you?"

"Yes, if I start now."

"All right. Two ladies. You're to bring them to the house, not here. Mrs. Ray knows about them. And—"

"—get back here as soon as you can!" He closed his door again, sat down on the bed and opened the other letter. His hand shook as he unfolded it. He was so scared and excited that he could scarcely decipher the angular, girlish penmanship:

"To dear Captain Darragh, our champion and friend—"

"It is difficult for me, monsieur, to express my happiness and my deep gratitude in the so cold formality of the written page."

"Alas, sir, it will be still more difficult to find words for it when again I have the happiness of greeting you in proper person."

"Valentine has told you everything, she warns me, and I am, therefore, somewhat at a loss to know what I should write to you."

"Yes, I know very well what I would write if I dare. It is this: that I wish to know—although it may not pass the censor—but I am most impatient to see you, Monsieur. Not because of kind new past, nor with an unworthy expectation of benefits to come. But because of friendship—the deepest, sincerest of my whole life."

"Is it not modest of a young girl to say this? Yet, surely all the world which was once on earth, formal, artificial, has been burnt out of our hearts by this faithful calamity which has overwhelmed the world with fire and blood."

"If ever on earth there was a time when we might venture to express with candor what is hid in our minds and hearts, it would seem, Monsieur, that the time is now."

"True, I have known you only for one day and one evening. Yet, what happened to the world in that brief space of time—and to us, Monsieur—brought us, together as though our meeting were but a blessed reunion after the happy intimacy of many years."

"I speak, Monsieur, for myself. Alas I hope that I speak, also for you."

"With a heart too full to thank you and with expectations indescribable—but with courage, always, for any event—I take my leave of you at the foot of this page. Like death—I trust, my adieu is not the end but the beginning to him whom I must honor in all the world. And willingly obey if he shall command. And otherwise—all else that in his mind—and heart—he might desire."

"Theodora."

It was the most beautiful love letter any man ever received in all the history of love.

And it had passed the censor.

ITS A CINCH HE CAN GET PLENTY
OF CHEAP HELPERSCorsetier Is About The Last Word In Male Occupations

BY MARGARET ROHE

There is a man in our town,
And he is wondrous wise,
At working over figures
Of every sort and size.
He's no arithmetician,
Nor yet a bank cashier,
Yet how that man knows figures!
For he's a corsetier.

New York.—We have long since ceased to lift a surprised eyebrow over the bevy of men dressmakers and men milliners popping up all about, but a man corsetier certainly does "stand out" for a bit—what?

By the term man corsetier you may gather that the stays themselves are designed to embrace the portly persons of overweight stage stars, movie heroes and professional lady killers whose tummies have gotten a bit beyond restraint, but you are wrong. It's the corsetier himself who is a male of the species and the scientifically evolved bits of whalebone and pink brocade which he designs are all for the ladies and for all ladies.

TIS ALL THE SAME

Be they wobbly of hip and slobby of contour or scraggy and skinnny as a well plucked snipe it's all the same to Isidor Baer.

Making over the human form from slobsishness to symmetry is certainly his meat—"baermeat" as it were.

For 35 years Isidor Baer has been struggling with the problem of how to fit a three quart figure into a one pint corset. He has stayed with the problem so persistently and stayed so many bolshevik figures consistently that nothing that comes to him in the figure line or curve is impossible—on the contrary it is always "Baerpossible."

HARMONY AND COMFORT

In the velvet gray of his scientifically designed corsets the most elegant proportions are restrained discreetly at crucial points and allowed to go plish at others until not only harmony of contour has been obtained but a remarkable degree of comfort as well.

Indeed how to be comfortable though corseted is Mr Baer's mission in life to elucidate.

Though it seems tantalizingly chimerical to us portly persons some of his clients are so skinnny that he is forced to make pads to fill out their hollows before he can build them satisfactory stays.

The bulk of his patronesses are bulky, however. One generously proportioned Juno, the wife of a well known American cough drop king, orders her Baer stays annually by the half dozen of the most de luxe material and corresponding price.

Fortunately for those whose hus hands don't cough up so easily Mr Baer waxes just as enthusiastic over the diaphram reduction of one whose opulence is more in the flesh than in the purse. With the goal of a true artist he seizes upon the abominably constricted frame of a new client shatters it to bits and then, Rubiavushly, remolds it nearer to the heart's desire.

As a corsetier Isidor is certainly a baer.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

An Albanian suitor, is spared the bitter disappointment of finding that the girl he has married is not an heiress, for the Albanian girls wear diamonds upon their heads.

Headbands of Turkish paras, small silver coins and pictures inlaid their financial rating. A very rich heiress has very large gold coins dangling in her locks to attract suitors.

DANCING FROCKS

The most youthful dancing frocks have slashes, tied in large bows at the hips. Taffeta and velvet frocks are most frequently treated this way.

MAIN STREET OF ZION
CITY NOW IS PAVED

By Associated Press
Zion, Ill. — Zion, beneath whose placid surface smoulders the fires of religious factionalism and anti-tobacco protagonists, today were its best hid and tucked and bowed to the world as its principal street was opened to the motoring public. Sheridan Road, the north shore boulevard, which in Zion is called Elijah Avenue has been paved with concrete and the half mile stretch of "the worst going in this section of the state is a thing of the past. Time was when Wilbur Glenn Voliva overseer of Zion did not care if motorists bumped along Elijah Avenue and Reviled the town. But civic awakening resulted in a 74 foot concrete pavement.

Adventures Of
The Twins

On New Adventure

The Fairy Queen had just told Nancy and Nick that Flap-Doodle, the purple fairy who flew with his ears, had stolen her magic wand.

And Nancy and Nick had offered to hunt it for her.

"Do you know where he went?" asked Nancy.

"No, I don't," answered the Queen. "That's the trouble. Flap Doodle, being able to fly so well and everything, doesn't have all his hiding holes on this earth. He lives on a star called Tinky-Winkle, and it's as full of hiding holes as a cream-puff."

"We have our Green Shoes," declared Nick, "so it won't matter how far away he is. We'll find him and get your wand."

"Good for you!" said the Magical Mushroom. "I'll take you as far as Tinky-Winkle, and introduce you to some of the Tinky Winklers. They are all queer people who look like Flap-Doodle. They fly with their ears. Only instead of being purple, they are orange-colored. Come on, we'd better go."

At last they came to the Tinky Winkle star.

It was a queer place. Much queerer than the moon! It was flat like a coffee saucer and turned up at the edges.

But what was the difference. If any of the Tinky Winklers fell off, it wasn't any worse than a sparrow falling off a roof. He could fly with his ears and get back on again in a hurry. Nancy and Nick and the Magical Mushroom landed right in the middle of it and looked around but no sign of a purple fairy could they see.

FUR PANELS

A novel use of fur is noted on a black velvet gown—it makes the loose panels that are fastened at the low waistline, and extend below the hem line. The fur used is mole.

DECIDED CONTRASTS

Colors grow more brilliant as the season advances and contrasts more violent. One of the newest sports suits has a short coat of black velvet with an orange colored vest, worn with a skirt of orange and white stripes.

ANKLE REDUCERS

To combat the thick ankle, which some believe comes from wearing low heels and others attribute to the present tendency to discard high shoes, ankle reducers are appearing on the market. They are worn at night to counteract the injurious work of the day.

EMBROIDERED VELVET

Not only is the velvet gown of this season beaded and braided, but frequently it is entirely covered with embroidery, usually of self color. However, peasant embroidery, in gay colors is also used.

SPORTS COATS

A smart sport coat is of black and white checks, the checks being about four inches square, with a large collar of gray Russian wolf. A deep orange lining is another striking feature.

JUMPS FROM SCHOOL TO STARDOM

MISS LORNA DUNN

St. Paul, Minn.—The journey from school to theatrical stardom is usually a long, obstacle strewn journey. But Lorna Dunn, 18 year old high school student, made it in one jump.

A musical comedy company playing here was in difficulties because the leading lady was called home by illness, and none of the chorus girls could take her place. Miss Dunn, who had starred in local theatricals was suggested and she appeared as the star two days later.

The girl's showing was so good that she was engaged to play the leading role during the rest of the company's road season.

Cinderella Sally

Chapter 22 — Sally Talks

By Zoe Beckley

The party given by "Dollars" Canby in his sumptuous "bungalow" on the roof of the Frohes Theater turned out to be so discreet and whole some jolly that everyone was reassured for Sally—except Golden, who knew his financial backer too well.

That Canby did not press his liking upon Sally meant only that he was too determined to be in haste. It did not surprise Golden, then, when after the party Canby said:

"Why, that child has personality—personality, I tell you, besides being a darned lovable kid. Educate her, and I'll foot the bill. Give her book stuff, voice, dancing, stage stuff, so ciety trimmings—everything."

"She'll take a peach of a polish. But first sign her up hard and fast with us for five years. Make it the hardest contract to break that ever was built. No other manager's going to reap what I sow."

Golden obeyed orders, drew up the contract and called in Sally to sign. She read it—and looked startled.

"Why, Mr. Golden, all that money for me? Why—why I don't deserve it. I—I got so scared and—"

"It's what you will do, not only what you did," Golden evaded. "We think you're promising—"

"Canby and I!" He colored. "You're to be trained—really good teachers and all that sort of thing. Sally, it's your great chance."

"Chance! There it was again, the word Sally translated always as 'opportunity' never as 'risk'."

She looked into Golden's eyes which looked back lovingly picked up the pen—and signed the contract.

Life became very full for Sally. Her stage fright soon wore off and she revealed what that first audience sensed a—fresh, sweet, modest personality that had known the grim side of life and mellowed under it.

She went to live with Lucy Bennett's mother and morning afternoon Sunday's and sometimes holidays, she studied with a faithfulness that overjoyed her tutors and music dancing and physical training teachers. Evenings she continued at the theater her parts gradually growing in importance as her capacity grew.

Several nights a week Canby took her to supper—hurried meals, between day work and night work, and generally with Lucy Bennett or her spunky mother along. Canby was amazingly kind and courteous but one evening he remarked a little acidly:

CHARGE WOMEN OF
FRANCE HATE BOOKS

By Associated Press

Paris.—As the women of Paris recently have been beating the men in competitions for places as librarians, a discussion has arisen over women's attitude towards books.

Writers in general seem to agree that woman is the avowed enemy of books. This view, which will seem strange to Americans, is accepted by the French as a fact not necessary to discuss. They seek only to show why, and how greatly woman is hostile to books.

One of the principal publishers is quoted as saying that in the retail trade women constitute only 1 per cent of buyers in France. Others date upon the difficulty their men friends have in keeping a library of fine books and in adding to the collection. Men's love of books, and women's dislike of them, are cited as having caused the break-up of many homes. M. de Bersaucourt author and booklover, holds it to be the duty of a bibliophile to remain a bachelor. He cites the cases of men who have to buy books secretly to avoid outbreaks of wrath from their spouses, and others who keep books hidden.

Why Teeth Show

In pictures—and everywhere today

Millions are removing film

Have you noted how most pictures now show pretty teeth? And how countless people, wherever you look, show beautiful teeth when they smile nowadays?

Those are results of this new way of teeth cleaning, which millions now employ. Now we urge you to try it at our cost, and to start today.

Try combating film

Until late years, nearly all teeth were kept clouded by a film. And 49 in 50 people suffered from film attacks.

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. It forms the basis of dingy coats, including tartar, unless you constantly combat it. Stains are absorbed by that film.

It also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film. And all those troubles were constantly increasing, despite all care of the teeth.

Old ways ineffective

No ordinary tooth paste effectively fights film. In fact, tooth pastes based on soap and chalk even make the film more clinging.

So dental science has for years been seeking film combatants. Two effective methods have been found. Able authorities proved them by many careful tests. And now leading dentists almost the world over advise their daily use.

A new-type tooth paste has been created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. In that tooth paste are embodied those two film combatants—one to curdle the film, one to remove it.

Careful people of fifty nations are now using this new method, largely by dental advice. To millions of homes it is bringing a new dental era.

Two other new effects

Pepsodent brings two other effects which dental science has now proved essential.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize the acids which cause decay.

The ordinary tooth paste brings just opposite effects. It decreases these two great tooth-protecting agents which Nature has provided. Pepsodent, with every use, gives them manifold effect.

Thus to millions of people in every clime Pepsodent has brought new beauty, new protection. The benefits will be life-lasting. Tooth conditions among whole races are being altered by this method.

Brings Added Charms
and Quickly

You will see the Pepsodent effects, amazing and delightful, after very little use.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

New beauty, new charm, comes with those whiter teeth. Also new safety, new cleanliness. Not by scouring teeth in any harmful way, but by fitting the film for easy removal.

This means too much to you and yours to be longer overlooked. Cut out this coupon now and present it at your store.

LAWRENCE AND HIGH SCHOOL CONQUER FOOTBALL FOES

Northwestern Victim Of Second College Squad; Score, 48 To 0

Appleton Gets Tighter Hold On State Title—Lutherans, Outweighed And Outplayed, Fight Uphill Contest

Lawrence college tightened its hold on the Little Five football title by taking an easy victory from Northwestern college of Watertown, Saturday afternoon.

Using the second team until the first part of the fourth quarter, Coach H. D. McChesney's All-Americans piled up 41 points and the regular squad added 7 more in the last 13 minutes of play. The final score was 48 to 0.

Outweighed and outplayed, the Lutherans were no match for the Lawrence gridders and the visitors were kept on the defensive throughout with the exception of the second quarter when the Northwestern opened up and used several forward passes with success.

KOTAL STARS

Quarterback Eddie Kotal, the only regular to play the entire contest, featured the game with a 75 yard dash after receiving a punt from Northwestern in the first play of the third quarter. Only the effective tackling of Weisberger stopped a run almost the full length of the field for a touchdown.

Ruhlmann and Goan, halves, Curry, fullback played games that won places in the hearts of the Lawrence students. Kotal, Ruhlmann and Curry scored two touchdowns apiece. Berry, in the final period went over for the other touchdown.

HOW THEY LINED UP

Appleton won the toss and chose to kick.

The teams lined up as follows:

Lawrence	Northwestern
Doering, l. e.	Klenke, l. e.
Packard, l. c.	Van Koy, l. c.
Remington, r. c.	Krueger, r. c.
Kiestling, r. g.	Lehman, r. g.
Olson, r. t.	Pennings, r. t.
Kotal, q. b.	Weisberger, q. b.
Ruhlmann, l. b.	Engel, l. b.
Goan, r. b.	Boetcher, r. b.
Curry, f. b.	Siffring, f. b.

The first score came early. Appleton kicked off to Enckel. Northwestern was forced to punt on the fourth attempt for downs and the ball landed on a 15 yard line.

Goan carried the piggins for 25 yards on an end run. Curry advanced the ball 20 more yards. In the next play Ruhlmann passed the ball to Kotal who ran from the 20 yard line for a touchdown. Doering missed on his try for a point via a kick. It required little effort in the next play to advance the piggins in the Northwestern territory. Goan and Curry, each made 15 yards and put the ball in play on the 15 yard line. Ruhlmann gained 12 yards. In the next attempt Ruhlmann went over for a touchdown. Lawrence made the extra point by a pass from Kotal to Berry.

It looked like a runaway. Ruhlmann had just advanced the piggins 2 yards from a touchdown when the whistle blew. The score at the end of the first period was 13 to 0.

ANOTHER TOUCHDOWN

Play began in the second quarter on Northwestern's 2 yard line. Curry pushed the piggins over and Lawrence's hand struck up while Doering kicked. Seven more points for Lawrence.

At this juncture the Northwestern quarter discovered that he could do nothing with line plunges and opened up. The balance of the quarter was Northwestern's with a number of pretty forward passes being well executed. Northwestern made two downs. A pass about 30 yards was thrown by Boetcher to Voecks. Gander replaced Blackburn. The first half ended 20 to 0.

LAWRENCE PILES 'EM UP

The third quarter was disastrous to the visitors. Twenty-one points were piled up.

Northwestern punted and after the ball was missed by several Lawrenceans, Kotal picked it up and dashed 75 yards before he was downed. Kotal with the aid of the interference, fouth and dodged the Northwestern tacklers where they were the thickest but finally was downed by Weisberger on the Northwestern 25 yard line. Northwestern came back and held the Lawrenceans for three downs and Doering was forced to drop kick. It was a clean boot and gave Lawrence 3 points. Ruhlmann got a touchdown after the ball was well advanced by the rest of the members of the backfield. Doering failed to kick. Lawrence's hand turned up again and the Growing Hundred and the Snappy Supporters in the grand stand had a bit to say. The count now was 29 to 0, which was the score that Ripon beat the Lutherans.

In the next play Kotal carried the ball 22 yards. Goan 5 and 5 more were added by Curry, giving Appleton another touchdown. Doering's kick was blocked. Six more for Lawrence.

It took about four plays after Lawrence got the ball for the following touchdown. Kotal ran 30 yards, Ruhlmann 5, Curry 20 and another 30 yards by Kotal gave the touchdown. Doering failed to send the oval between the goal posts. Holmes was sent in for Doering. The third quarter ended 48 to 0.

SEND IN REGULARS

After two minutes play, Coach McChesney called in his second team to permit the regulars to warm up. Kotal was the only man to remain on the field. The change in lineup was something like this: Smith for Remington, center, Huntington and "Red" Smith guards for Olson and Packard; McGlynn and Blackburn tackles for

TIE LOOMS IN BIG TEN RACE

Four Teams Are On Even Terms—Wisconsin Plays Illinois Next

By Associated Press
Chicago—Followers of western conference football are beginning to anticipate, with greater conviction but less satisfaction than ever, a tie for the championship as the Big Ten season approaches its end.

Four teams are on even terms with two games tucked away as a result of Wisconsin's 14 to 0 victory over Minnesota Saturday as Chicago and Iowa were idle while Michigan trounced the Aggies of the same date.

Iowa, last year's champions, would appear to have what advantage the dope might give, as the Hawkeyes do not meet any of the three other leaders. Wisconsin plays both Chicago and Michigan and the Maroons and Wolverines do not meet each other. This leaves the situation largely with the eleven now virtually eliminated from the race to prevent a tie by upsetting the leaders while Wisconsin is engaged in the conflict for the survival of the fittest with Chicago and Michigan.

Remaining games for the four conference leaders are:

Minnesota-Ohio State and Northwestern.

Wisconsin-Illinois Michigan and Chicago.

Michigan-Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Chicago-Ohio State, Illinois and Wisconsin.

Illinois and Wisconsin in the midst of their war over professionalism and ethics, will carry their animosities into the field next Saturday in one of the most important struggles in the Big Ten. The game will be played at Madison.

Minnesota meets Iowa at Iowa City while the Maroons go to Columbus to mix with the Ohio State. In addition to these three important Big Ten games, Purdue plays Northwestern in the fourth conference struggle.

Indiana plays another nonconference contender this week meeting West Virginia at Indianapolis. Michigan remains idle, preparing for the Wisconsin battle Nov. 18.

Whether the regulars couldn't get warmed up fast enough, or were too confident, Northwestern was able to hold them and the first team was forced to punt after three attempts to gain ground through line smashes and passes. Once the regulars approached Northwestern's 3 yard line but were shoved back on losses to the 15 yard line. Basing then attempted a place kick. It was too low. Northwestern got the ball on the 20 yard line but was soon forced to punt to its own 45 yard line. A 30 yard pass from Basing to Kotal put the ball on the 15 yard line. The next was a pass from Basing to Berry over the Northwestern goal. The hand played again as Basing kicked for an extra point. The game ended about midfield 48 to 0.

Officials—Gross, Iowa, referee; Fairchild, Illinois, umpire and Samp, Wisconsin, head linesman.

NEAR EAST TO PROFIT BY RIPON-LAWRENCE GAME

10 Per Cent Of Gate Receipts To Go For Relief In Asia Minor

Ripon—Ten per cent of the receipts of the Ripon-Lawrence football game to be played at Ripon Saturday, Nov. 11, as a feature of the annual home-coming of the Crimson college, will be contributed to the Near East relief drive, committed at Washington D. C. Dr. Silas E. Evans, president of the college, replied to a telegram from Archibald Roosevelt stating that Ripon would join in the movement which is spreading through colleges over the country. Mr. Roosevelt is secretary of the national committee on Near East relief.

Names of such prominent men as Will Hays, Dr. James L. Barton, and Herbert Hoover are found on the committee which at present is cooperating with the Red Cross in the task of enrolling the colleges of the country to help in this great work. "Eliminate Lawrence" will be Ripon's slogan for homecoming this year. All arrangements have been left to the athletic "R" club with Coleman G. Gunderson of Wautoma, the president, general chairman.

GOOD PRELIMS FOR FIRST MAT SHOW

Wrestling Season Lid Will Be Tilted Here Tuesday Night

Promoter Elmer Johnston announced on Monday that he is all set for the first wrestling show of the season Tuesday night when John Freberg, Chicago, and Karl Schultz, St. Louis, go at each other for two hours or less of hard work. Freberg will weigh in at about 23 pounds and Schultz says he will tip the beam at approximately 220 pounds.

An interesting but short card of preliminaries will be offered. Kid Joy of Fresno, Calif., will be pitted against a chap named Grey who wants to make his home in this city, in one of the prelim bouts. A heavyweight who answers to the name of Carl Anderson heard Appleton was a pretty good wrestler and he pulled in here a day or two ago willing to go on the mat with almost anyone.

The first show is to begin at 8:15 and Johnston hopes to have the big boys in action by 9 o'clock or a few minutes later. Barney Rhodes of Green Bay will do the refereeing and Fred Bushey will ring the bell. The Freberg-Schultz match has the earmarks of a thriller. Freberg is rather partial to a headlock while Schultz likes to work the scissors. Freberg's headlock was good enough to win a fall from Champion Lewis not so long ago.

ST. PAUL VOLLEY BALL LEAGUE MEETS TONIGHT

Plans for the coming volleyball season of St. Paul's school will be taken up 7:30 Monday evening as the result of a call issued by John Bohne, secretary of the athletic activities. All members of last year's four teams are urged to attend and to bring candidates with them. St. Paul members plan a bigger ball season than that of 1922. Practice is scheduled to begin next week. A schedule will be worked out following the meeting.

IOWA CENTER

JOHN HELDT

Like the catcher in baseball, the center in football seldom receives the credit due him.

The center of course has little or no chance to carry the ball, and the sensational features of the game invariably revolve about the man carrying the ball.

A good center is as essential to football as is the catcher to the national pastime.

The center in a way is the foundation of the line. In addition the success of the backfield men to a great extent hinges on the accuracy of his passing.

Coach Jones of Iowa considers no player of greater worth to Iowa than Center John Heldt of Lyons, Iowa.

HOLDS 'EM

END LEMON

One of the outstanding features of Centre's play against Harvard was the work of End Lemon, when it is considered it was his first big game. Under the coaching of Charley Moran Lemon is certain to be a much improved player next season. Harvard was unable to make much headway around his end.

Blue And Orange Squad Holds Strong Menominee Team; Cops Game 13 To 7

Line Wipes Out Marinette Disgrace By Playing Fine Contest—Schweger Replaces Bonini At Center

Appleton high school football followers were rewarded in their faith in the school's football team Sunday as the result of the victorious return from Menominee where Coach Arthur Denney's eleven administered a 13 to 7 licking to the Michigan high school team on Saturday.

Playing throughout the entire game, except the last minute without "Big Bonini, the Blue and Orange roving center, the Appleton high school line showed form that wiped away the disgrace of a week ago in the Marinette game and held Menominee's strong team through the bigger share of the game.

MEMOINIE GETS TOUCHDOWN
Time after time the Wolverines attempted to plunge through the line but to no avail. Menominee finally began to resort to open tactics and scored a touchdown in the third quarter. This was about the only time that the Michigan school had the upper hand over Appleton.

Captain "Pete" Briese playing at half instead of full, went over for touchdowns in the first quarter and in the beginning of the second. His first attempt to kick goal was blocked but he was successful following the second touchdown. "Bill" Tappert, playing fullback, executed a number of fine passes. Mills, a quarter and Gerou at half also figured in spectacular plays.

Appleton played a varied game with most gains made on end runs and off tackle plays. Appleton was robbed of a touchdown by the whistle in the final quarter. The game ended as Appleton was making a direct march for another touchdown. Appleton was on Menominee's 8 yard line. Coach Denney rushed in Bonini in the last 60 seconds of play.

Briese made 4 yards. Tappert added 5 more and on the next play made it first down. Tappert advanced the ball 5 yards in two plays, and a pass Tappert to Briese made it first down. Appleton advanced the ball to Menominee's 4 yard line and the first quarter ended.

Briese kicked on the second down to Appleton's 38 yard line. Appleton was penalized 5 yards, and the ball went to Menominee. A pass, Meissner to Hendr gave Menominee 4 yards, but two line plays and another pass failed, the ball going to Appleton on her own 25 yard line. Gerou and Tappert advanced the ball 3 yards and Briese kicked. Appleton recovered the ball when Menominee fumbled on her own 45 yard line. Gerou made 4 yards in two tries and Briese kicked. Menominee receiving on her 30 yard line and running the ball back to her 40 yard stripe, Waverick broke through the Appleton line on the second down for a 23 yard run. Two passes failed, and the line plunges didn't gain enough to make it first down. The ball went to Appleton on her own 35 yard line. Briese made 5 yards around right end, and Appleton was penalized 5 yards because her backfield was in motion before the ball was passed. A pass Tappert to Mills netted Appleton 10 yards. Appleton made first down on a series of line plays but was penalized for stalling. Tappert's pass to Mills made 15 yards. Appleton was penalized 5 yards on each of the two succeeding plays for being off side. Appleton made 13 yards on a forward pass but failed to make 1st down and the ball went to Menominee who fumbled it on the first play. Appleton recovered the ball on Menominee's 11 yard line and began a march toward the goal line when the whistle blew ending the game.

'CUB' BUCK WINS FOR GREEN BAY

Place Kick Gives Packers 3 To 0 Score Over Columbus

Green Bay—Wallowing around on a gridiron ankle deep in mud and playing in a driving rain, the Green Bay Packers defeated the Columbus Panhandles here Sunday afternoon by the score of 3 to 0.

A place kick from a difficult angle on the 25 yard line by Cub Buck, Green Bay's peerless right tackle, paved the way for the Panhandle's downfall. Despite the climatic conditions, some 2,000 spectators witnessed the piggins fracas. Considering the condition of the playing field, it was a good exhibition of football. Both teams were forced to resort to line bucking, due to the slippery condition of the ball.

Columbus never got within Green Bay's 35 yard line. Green Bay was close to the visitor's goal several times, but blew a couple of good chances to score. Woodin's covering of a partly blocked kick in the third quarter and a crash outside of tackle by Usher put Green Bay in a position for Buck to make use of his educated toe.

RIPON DEFEATS CARROLL, 12 TO 7

Waukesha—Ripon defeated Carroll here on Saturday in a brilliant game by a score of 12 to 7 before a large homecoming crowd. The first score of the battle came in the third period when Ellison ran 65 yards through the entire Ripon team for Carroll's only touchdown. Ellison then kicked goal. Carroll's score started Ripon going, and the upstarters scored shortly after, advancing the ball up the field by a series of brilliant passes. Graf missed a place kick for the extra point.

The last score of the game came in the final period when a long pass from Morrison to Gauthier carried the ball to the one yard line, from where Schneider carried it over. Schneider missed a drop kick for the extra point.

Although outweighed, Carroll put up a plucky defense and fought the Ripon warriors to a standstill most of the way, despite the fact that most of the play was in Carroll's territory.

LAWRENCE REDS LOSERS, 48 TO 10

Yearlings Avert Whitewash In Last Few Minutes Of Play

Fighting against odds—a heavier and faster team—the Lawrence freshman football team, was forced to howl to a 48 to 10 defeat in the hands of St. John's Military academy at Delafield, Wis. Saturday afternoon. The academy scored all of its points in the first three quarters and only an unexcelled fighting spirit averted a whitewash. In the last few minutes play Captain Zussman, at quarter, went over for a touchdown and kicked goal. An additional 3 points were scored by a drop kick by Brooks.

BUENOS AIRES PORT GETS MANY VESSELS

By Associated Press
Buenos Aires—The port of Buenos Aires is resuming its pre war activity. No less than seventeen vessels came in during a single day recently, a greater number than has been reported since the close of hostilities. The arrivals of the record day included five passenger liners, two from Germany, one from England, one from Italy and one from Holland, and twelve freighters. Among the latter were vessels of British, American, Norwegian, French and Spanish register, and their ports of departure were most diversified. Lumber was brought from Mobile and Gulfport, oil from Tampico, coal from Cardiff and general merchandise from Hamburg. Curiously enough the coal from Cardiff came in a French bottom, while the cargo from Hamburg was carried by a Spaniard.

IMMIGRATION IS WORLD MOVEMENT. LESCOHIER SAYS

Immigration From Southern Europe Creates New American Problem

Immigration as a world movement northward and westward, not as an American phenomenon, was the subject in which Dr. Don D. Lescoghier brought a new light on race problems to the first audience of the Forum this year at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Sunday evening. His formal subject was "Race Conflict and the Future." More than 500 persons were present, which seemed to indicate that the attendance this year would be larger than ever.

Dr. Lescoghier began his address with the statement that man is the most restless and moving animal that God has put on earth and then showed by reference to history the migratory nature of man from earliest times to the present. He said that up to the nineteenth century people had moved in nations or in masses but in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries men had come out to seek their homes as individuals and had settled with men of other races in the same territory, thereby causing race problems.

ITALIANS WANDER. Italy is one of the greatest emigration countries and has been for more than 15 years, said the speaker. There have been two great streams of Italian emigration one into Europe and the other across the seas both amounting to hundreds of thousands of people. You will find Italians in Switzerland, Austria, southern France, Germany, England and America in large numbers. Two thirds of the shipping of the Argentine is done by the Italians and most of the hard labor in Brazil is done by Italians. In 1901 125 years Italy has added millions to the population of the United States and the reason is not to be explained by American conditions.

When the pressure of population subsistence is greater in one country than in other lands millions eventually seek their food and for wages in these lands according to the speaker. He said that when man's hand was rendered by machinery it was possible for the birth rate to increase and that as the birth rate went up in the nineteenth century the death rate declined until today there are more people on the face of the earth than ever before. At the present time there is a slight decline in the birth rate which reached its highest point in the latter part of the nineteenth century.

FOUR WHITE RACES. That 40,000,000 of the present population of the United States are descended from the 4,000,000 early settlers before 1800 that 23,000,000 are descended from immigrants since that time were the figures given by Dr. Lescoghier. This would total about 75,000,000 from immigration of white peoples while there are now about 12,000,000 negroes and the remainder of the population is American Indian, Japanese and Chinese. He divided the white peoples into four great white races: Nordic, Alpine, Latin and Semitic, giving their physical and emotional characteristics.

The great question in this country in regard to the white races is when the old primary and mixed bloods of one American will race. He said that at the present time the Nordic race is by far the largest percentage of the population and that marriage surveys show that the Nordic people intermarry with the other three but that the others do not marry with each other.

NEW AMERICAN PROBLEM. At the present time immigration in this country is largely Latin and Semitic coming from Italy, Spain and Greece, a mixture of Latin and Greek blood. He said that the Nordic race is the most advanced in the race of the world. This makes a new American problem because these new races are backward from an educational and material standpoint and the question is raised: how these people will be able to become as good Americans as the former stock did.

The speaker did not go into the yellow and negro problems to any great extent although he said that the exclusion of the yellow man is bound to be questioned because the press of Japan and China is constantly asking what right the white man has to these lands which he took from other races. That the negro problem is the biggest race problem which is facing the United States is the opinion of the speaker.

THE NEGRO PROBLEM. It has been our attitude that if we train the negroes mind hand and morals, our problem will be solved," said Dr. Lescoghier. "The American negro wants the same place as the white man, not to marry white people, but to be elected to the legislature and to have the advantages of earning a living. The South will not admit that the negro is a social equal but it will let him earn his living, while the North says that he is an equal but will not give him a job so that he can earn a decent living for his family. Now that the negro is ready to play a man's part, are we big enough to let him play it?" This is the negro problem.

The invocation was given by Dr. H. E. Peabody and the plea for the silver offering and the introduction of the speaker was made by Dr. J. A. Holmes. Music was furnished by the Schola Cantorum under the direction of Carl J. Waterman.

Mrs. William Goldenbach of Kaukauna is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Hughes, 1023 Seventh st.

Armistice Day Program. Ex-service men at Lawrence college will have charge of the chapel service on Friday morning, which has been set aside for an armistice day program. The men in college who are seniors and juniors this year were the first bonus students at Lawrence. Not so many ex-service men are in college now as the first years after the war.

Dr. R. T. Frawley of Wausau, spent Sunday at the home of his mother, Mrs. D. J. Frawley, 547 Oak st.

TWO NEW SERVICE BUILDINGS GOING UP IN WEST END

Progress Is Being Made On New Automobile Service Structures

M. H. Smith, who has been operating an auto laundry on West College ave. for the last two years, has started work on the foundation of a new two story building 30 by 60 feet in size. The building will have a pressed brick front and will be constructed of cement blocks. The second story will be used for office and residence purposes.

Paul Manthey has the walls under way for a new electric service station immediately east of St. John church on West College ave. The building is 42 by 60 feet in size and will be one story high. It will be ready for occupancy by Dec. 1.

Exterior work on the new sales building and garage of St. John Motor Car Co. at the corner of College and Locust st. is practically completed. The plate glass windows will be placed in position within the next few days after which the heating plant will be put in working order. A portion of the garage machinery has already been installed.

LAY HEAVY STEEL ON W. & N. LINE

That the Soo Line intends to make the Crandon Appleton branch, formerly the Wisconsin North rd., an important short cut to Chicago for its northern traffic is evidenced by the fact that a work train has commenced distributing heavy steel along its right of way from Appleton north. It is understood here the present rails are to be replaced to make it possible for the road to operate its heaviest trains by way of Appleton.

UNANIMOUS VOTE FOR "BOB" WINS $50 CHECK

Madison—A check for $50 has just been received by the town of Port Edwards, as a result of its unanimous vote cast for the La Follette progressive Republican ticket in the September primaries. A. Gordon, assistant secretary of state, advised S. D. Stevens of Nekoosa, that this offer was made by a citizen of Milwaukee to all towns throughout the state casting their entire vote for the La Follette ticket. The town of Port Edwards gave 70 votes out of 78 cast for the progressive candidates thus being one of the towns to give a unanimous ballot. The name of the other town was not mentioned. The check has been given to the German Lutheran church at Port Edwards for use as it sees fit.

Green Is Discarded. Have you missed the "green lid" on the heads of Lawrence freshmen and the green armbands from the girls' coat sleeves? They have been gone since Nov. 1. The date set by the student senate for the yearlings to don their own headgear. The mark of the first year students will make its appearance again in the spring, when the badges will be worn for two weeks.

INTENT OF VOTERS IS WHAT COUNTS IN TABULATING VOTES

Don't Have To Scratch Out Name Of Nominee To Vote Independent

Judges of election have been instructed not to declare void votes cast for independent candidates when the voter who, otherwise voting a straight party ticket, marks an X also after in independent or other party candidate and omits scratching out the name of the regular party candidate for the office in question.

It is no necessary to strike out the name of the regular party candidate, according to an opinion handed down Saturday by Fred V. Heinemann, district attorney. The vote for the independent or opposing party candidate in this case would be the one to be considered, he said.

Protest was made within the last few days by some officials to the article which appeared in the Post-Crescent last week stating that it was not necessary to scratch out the regular party candidate in order to make the vote cast for an independent or other candidate count.

"If any judge of election has in the past failed to allow a vote so cast for an independent or opposing candidate just because the name of the regular party candidate was not scratched out, he has been in the wrong," said Mr. Heinemann. "Anyone has the right to put an X over the party column and yet vote for a candidate in another column. I am sustained in this opinion by Herman L. Ekern, candidate for attorney general."

"If a voter wishes to vote for all candidates nominated by any party, he shall make a cross or other mark under the party designation printed at the top of the ballot in the circle made for that purpose," the statutes say. "A ballot so marked and having no other mark will be counted for all the candidates of that party in the column underneath, unless the names of some of the candidates of the party have been erased or a name shall be written in, or a cross mark placed in the square at the right of the name, names of candidate in another column."

"When the elector shall have written the name of a person in the proper place for writing the same he shall be deemed to have voted for that person, although he shall have omitted to erase the name printed in the same column for the same office, or shall have made a mark against the same or against any other name for the same office, or omitted to mark against the name written."

STRONG WINES AND LAWS DON'T MIX

Treaties Compel Norway To Import Wine Despite Prohibition Act

By Associated Press

Christiania—Norway is confronted with a unique problem in attempting to enforce the prohibition laws of the country, in spite of the commercial treaties which are in force with France and Spain. Under these treaties Norway agrees to import huge quantities of strong wines which are banned under the prohibition laws.

From France the government has agreed to import 400,000 quarts of brandy, to be used for medicinal and technical purposes, and from Spain 600,000 quarts of wine which contain more than 14 per cent of alcohol. Included in this amount is 50,000 quarts of cordials which are of no use medically.

Woolen Mills, Started During Civil War, Has Had Many Adversities

F. J. Harwood, President Of Company, Is Oldest Manufacturer In Years Of Service In Appleton

There are few persons in Appleton who are old enough or who have lived here long enough to remember when the Appleton Woolen mills were established here. Several generations of farmers have passed by their plant on Lake-st since its inception. It has, in fact, a more remote history than any concern in the city, with possibly only two exceptions—the Appleton Hub and Spoke company and Willy & Co. flour mills, now known as the Appleton Cereal mills.

This industry has lived through three wars, two fires and several panics. It was the first concern in the country to operate with an individual electric lighting plant. It was the pioneer west of Ohio in the manufacture of papermakers' felts and jackets. The head of the firm is probably the oldest active manufacturer in the city.

STARTED IN WAR

At the time when this country was steeped in the Civil war, and woolen factories throughout the United States were overrun with orders for clothing for the army, the "Appleton Woolen factory," was established on the same site occupied today. Those at the head of it were George W. Spaulding and J. W. Hutchinson. The site had originally been purchased from Edward West.

Construction of the first plant was begun in February, 1861. Farmers here hailed the advent of this industry with delight, as they found a ready market for wool. It at once stimulated the raising of sheep. The plant was a 30 by 50 foot frame structure of several floors. It was in full operation the following January. Machinery had been installed at a cost of $6,000, but it consisted only of one set of cards.

After a year and a half of operation the factory burned to the ground along with several other buildings. The loss was about $10,000. Far from being discouraged, Messrs. Spaulding and Hutchinson immediately set about rebuilding the plant. It was finished in April 1864. It was of much larger proportions than the first plant, as it measured 45 by 105 feet and consisted of three stories.

A fairly large amount of carding was done at this time. The price of wool had risen and farmers had become more active in sheep raising. During the harvest months, laborers at the woolen mill were paid from $2.50 to $3 a day, which was an entirely new wage in those days.

Although the plant was always

The company now gave employment to about 50 hands.

In the year 1883 a weaving plant was added, and the manufacture of cashmeres and flannels was begun. A few years later the plant was equipped for the manufacture of papermakers' felts and yarns, leading the west in this industry. In 1893 a large 3-story addition was built. This was followed in 1900 by another substantial addition.

In 1902 the company again expanded by buying out the Reedsburg Woolen mills, a plant of about the same proportion as the Appleton one. The company there carries on the manufacture of cashmeres, flannels and yarns exclusively, with the exception of the yarn the Appleton plant makes for the Appleton Superior Knitting works in which it owns a controlling interest. Otherwise the Appleton plant concentrates on the manufacture of papermill supplies. The goods of the Reedsburg plant are marketed through New York and Philadelphia agencies, while the Appleton plant sells to jobbers.

The plant has grown to about four times the size of the one built in 1882. Approximately 200 men are employed in both plants. The output, however, has multiplied many times more. It ships its goods all over the United States as well as to China and Japan.

Just as during the Civil war the plant was established to make supplies for the army, so during the recent World war, the company turned over its plant to the manufacture of army blankets. Of the 123,000 made, the government rejected only 4, a record of which the company is proud.

Present officers of the company are F. J. Harwood, president and general manager, F. I. Phillips, vice president; D. V. N. Harwood, secretary-treasurer. These men, together with A. H. Wickesberg and A. H. Thuerer, constitute the board of directors.

APPROACH OF WAR BOOMS DEMAND FOR DIAMONDS

By Associated Press

London—The present boom in diamonds in England is attributed partly to recent rumors of war in the Near East. Experts in the trade say that this phenomenon has been noticed before, and that when political troubles are brewing the business in diamonds revives. Not only in London is this activity noticeable, but in Antwerp also diamonds have been changing hands in large numbers, somewhat similarly to the trade which occurred at the time of the first Russian revolution.

Another reason given for the diamond activity is that new fields are being opened, rough diamonds are coming to hand in larger quantities, and customers want not only the finest sort, but also smaller stones for clusters.

The plant has grown to about four times the size of the one built in 1882. Approximately 200 men are employed in both plants. The output, however, has multiplied many times more. It ships its goods all over the United States as well as to China and Japan.

"Why Man of Today Is Only 50% Efficient" is a little book now being given away by us. It tells interestingly why "that tired dragged-out feeling," headaches and biliousness are but forerunners of more serious troubles, if we only know it, as well as keeping us but half fit for the strenuous life necessary for the success that should be ours.

It also tells how, by the scientific use of simple pure warm water this condition can be permanently corrected and we can be one hundred per cent. every morning in the year.

Medicine has no part in the result, over a million enlightened Americans have read this book in the past few years, and are now delighted with the health they enjoy through the simple home practice which it recommends.

NEW SOOTHING HEALING OINTMENT RELIEVES COLDS, COUGHS, LAGRIPPE

Muco-Solvent Laboratory Will Not "Patent" This Discovery.

Formula Not Secret.

Muco-Solvent Company has never patented any of its products and Muco-Solvent Salve will be no exception. Physicians are welcome to the use of the prescription and can make the salve if they have the necessary ingredients and equipment at hand.

The principal components are from nature's great workshop, the piney woods and green forests, and form an ointment which is greaseless and stainless.

While the formula is not held secret, it is probable that Muco-Solvent Salve will be produced only by the Muco-Solvent laboratory because if made in small quantities would be costly, whereas it is now possible to buy at any drug store for a quarter, enough to treat a dozen colds.

Local Druggists Aid Movement "Eliminate the Common Cold" Now a Slogan.

Practically every drug store in this state, among them Union Pharmacy, R. C. Lowell, Schlitz Bros., Downer's Pharmacy and also Kaukauna Drug Co. at So. Kaukauna, Edwin J. Gitter at Hortonville, H. M. Rouse at Dale, in these cities will cooperate with Muco-Solvent laboratory in the movement to eliminate humanity's most insidious enemy, the common cold.

With this end in view, these druggists will sell Muco Salve at 25 cents per jar, though measured by its beneficial effects it could reasonably be sold for several times the price.

Every reader of this newspaper is urged to get a jar at once to use as a preventive or to check the first incipient cold that appears in the family. Then, too, Muco-Solvent has twenty other uses, being very effective for the alleviation of asthma, whooping cough, spasmodic croup, neuralgia, etc.

Do not confuse Muco Salve with preparations apparently similar. There is a difference both in strength and purity. The genuine is plainly marked with both name and price and if your druggist hasn't got it he can get it for you from his jobber.

Ideal Home Treatment—Simply Breathe The Vapors and Clear Head Instantly.

SAFE--PLEASANT--INEXPENSIVE

From our local druggists comes the good news that the people of this city, and in fact, of the whole state, can now get the wonderful new ointment or salve discovered recently by Muco-Solvent laboratory.

It is news of special welcome, at a time when colds are prevalent. We can now join the movement to eliminate colds and thereby avoid the epidemics of la grippe and influenza—which usually follow.

The new remedy is simplicity itself.

It is known as "Muco-Solvent Salve" and is composed of essential oils combined in petrolatum. Besides being very pleasant to the sense of smell it is greaseless, highly penetrative and will not stain the clothing.

Snuff it up the nostrils, rub on throat and chest, break up a cold without the least inconvenience or loss of time from work.

Beware "Slight Cold."

It is a well known fact that the common cold is the forerunner of trouble. A slight cold becomes worse, and a bad cold becomes a well-developed case of grippe next morning.

Health authorities have deplored the lack of interest shown by the very people whose lives are endangered. Great things will be accomplished with this new treatment because it is so effective, so simple and finally, so inexpensive.

Leads to Pneumonia.

The thousands of deaths in the influenza epidemics were from pneumonia. A bad cold prepares the victim for la grippe and la grippe prepares the way for pneumonia.

Get from the drug store twenty-five cents' worth of Muco-Solvent Salve—a home size jar, enough for the whole family. Use this according to directions without fear, being an external treatment overdose is impossible.

Where colds have become deep seated or are of long standing, besides putting the salve in the nostrils, apply hot towels to chest to open the pores, then rub Muco Salve on thickly and cover with warm flannels. Take a good laxative and go to bed. Keep window open for plenty of fresh air. By morning cold is usually broken and patient on highway to recovery. There is little booklet with each jar of Muco Salve that gives full information.

MUCO-SOLVENT SALVESHOULD BE IN EVERY HOUSEHOLD

Invaluable For Colds and Grippe — Also Fine for Burns and Bruises — Heals Chapped Hands.

As first aid for scalds, burns and bruises there is nothing better than Muco Salve. For chapped hands, cracked lips and fever blisters it works wonders. And as a lotion after shaving, the men of the house will use it in preference to more expensive preparations. Keep a 25c jar in the

WILL THE NINTH DISTRICT HONOR ITSELF TOMORROW

There are not many communities favored with civic and political leaders of the type of Judge Henry Graess. His whole career has been one of unselfish service to the people. All his sympathies are with men and women who are making their own way in the world. He believes in the people. He believes in his country, its government and its institutions. He holds no malice towards anyone nor towards any class. He has conducted a clean and altogether remarkable campaign for congressman. He is his own master and does his own thinking. His independence, integrity and courage are above question. He has large ability and those qualities which make it possible for the Ninth district to secure through his representation at Washington, invaluable service. His leadership is needed in the district and in the house. Too few men of his type are in public service today, or are offering themselves for public service. The Ninth district will honor itself by sending Judge Graess. Its failure to do so would be inexplicable.

REVOLUTION AVERTED IN ITALY

The Italian situation is remarkable in many important respects. The Fascista movement is a popular rebellion against socialism and communism, and it may be said to represent conservative public opinion. Yet, it is an unconservative movement, as its leadership threatened to take the government by force. It is a revolutionary movement, yet is loyal to the king.

The growing menace of communism for many years was the immediate cause of the Fascista reaction. Premier Mussolini says his administration is a trusteeship.

The Fascisti absolutely control Italy. Mussolini and his following actually could remove the king. But the captain of the new democracy declares loyalty to the sovereign and proclaims a policy of intense nationalism.

Though it is an extremist movement, it probably marks the first step toward republican conservatism in a kingdom. It will be well worth watching. So will Mussolini be well worth watching. He has a mixture of excellent and peculiar opinions and sentiments.

The king was shrewd in asking the Fascisti to take over the government. He averted a revolution. Premier Mussolini may be a political zealot. The methods by which he secured control of Italy may be questionable. The world may smile at him, after attaining to the premiership, dismisses the revolutionary "black shirts" who constituted his power.

But his sincere patriotism is an admirable quality, and it impresses even those who doubt his judgment and ability. At heart, he appears to be true and loyal. Mussolini says "he will give back to Italy its soul." He simply means that he will substitute nationalism for politics. Every nation, every community, needs to have its spirit reawakened once in a while, but it should be done without revolution.

LIVING AND SAVING WAGE DESIRABLE

A "just and reasonable wage" is a "living and saving wage." The national sentiment favors a living, as well as a saving wage and a just and reasonable wage. In every business prices and wages never move together. Prices rise ahead of wages and fall ahead of wages. When business is good activity effects steady changes.

At present prices are rising, and most people believe that they will remain high, perhaps go higher. But, if the history of trade means anything, and commercial tendency has any significance, the broad inclination of prices should be downward. It is the ultimate consumer who decides questions of prices and wages.

CLAIMS RESULTING FROM THE WAR

The United States court of claims which is hearing cases in connection with various claims growing out of the war, expects that the grand total involved will exceed $2,000,000,000.

The docket for the court's present term included items aggregating more than $350,000,000. Many of the cases are important, and, as might be expected, many claims are trivial and baseless.

Use of properties and inventions, damage to goods, infringement on patent rights, and uncompensated service are among the "divers" claims. Some claimants even seek remuneration for the adoption of ideas having value for inventive purposes.

It will be many years before obligations and troubles emanating in the war are disposed of, as it will not be easy to mete out justice and prevent imposition. Many nice doubts will arise in relation to claims.

BIRTHDAYS AS THEY ARE

To many men birthdays are holidays, commemorated as milestones on life's journey. To many the annual event is of no more than ordinary importance.

President Harding's fifty-seven years old. Part of his birthday he spent at his desk, part was allotted to recreation. But the chief executive did not celebrate it.

Years have a way of appearing long in the first half of life. They seem very short after we become used to existence. Looking ahead, the fifty-seventh anniversary looks unattainable, looking backwards, the years flew away in a hurry.

The big question is whether we make the most of each passing year, and whether we keep fresh of mind and of vigorous spirit. Efficiency in doing good is the real test of age's virtue. A birthday is the most significant occasion for inquiring into our merits, to see whether we are as young as we should be, and as desirous as we ought to be to serve others.

THE CHURCH AND THE PRESS

At the National Conference on Church Publicity, Mr. John C. Shaffer, owner of the Chicago Evening Post, said that there had been very little cooperation of late between the pulpit and the press. "We have no outstanding national man, either in the pulpit or the press, today," he declared, adding that these two great forces "must unite in helping the world back to normalcy."

There is, in fact, never a moment when the press and the pulpit are not cooperating. In the nature of things they have to work in harmony. Both are public institutions, educating and training the people in sound morals. They deal directly with people of all classes, and in much that they do they work on the same lines.

The ordinary cooperation which the pulpit receives from the press is too evident to call for special attention. The press not only chronicles all that the churches and congregations do, but publishes what the pulpit says, and besides, gives encouragement to church activities. The press is the organ of the church, as well as of the people, for the church is the greatest popular establishment.

It makes no difference whether there are or are not outstanding men of national influence in the pulpit or press. The general average in both is nearly as high as the former standards set by renowned individuals. This is an era of institutions, and it is probably well for the institutions and the public that they seem to be, as they are, greater than the most competent and powerful individuals.

The press is cooperating with the pulpit today in the most effective way possible by exploiting the underlying principles of religion and morals. By impressing on the people the fundamentals of the common professions of all churches, the press is promoting the general cause of religion, and by so doing is performing patriotic service.

The most beneficial assistance which the press can render to the pulpit is this indirect, this unapparent cooperation. There is a common ground of religion and morals for the church as a whole, and it is on this common ground that the press is producing wonderful results.

The press is teaching respect for all religions. It is indicating the dignity and necessity of faith, and the satisfaction and utility of upright living in accordance with the basic moral law. Could the press cooperate with the pulpit in a more practical way or to better purpose?

General Dawes says the members of congress are mostly power and momentum. The days seem to be employed in other departments.—KANSAS CITY STAR.

THE HOT AIR COUGH

Chronic bronchitis is the usual explanation for the annually recurring winter cough of the aged. Old age is a state of mind primarily, and preventable if taken in time. One of the earlier warning signals of the approach of old age is the insidiously growing fondness for a place close to the fire, a chimney corner nook, and other forms of cooing. The metabolism slows down in elderly individuals, the combustion process of vital fire languishes or smolders, the system absorbs less oxygen, and the individual finds it more difficult to keep his hand warm. In youth, when the vital fire burns briskly and metabolism is top high, why, the only problem is to keep cool and well; but the old folk, with a lower speed of metabolism, practice all sorts of deceptions, and employ all sorts of artifices in the attempt to keep warm.

Now what really is the right of this: Do the old folks sit about and avoid physical activity because they are "poorly" and haven't an active circulation and can't stand the cold weather? Or are these enfeeblings due to the bad habits old folks acquire of sitting around and neglecting the opportunity to get their blood oxygenated by the fresh air? Is it the draft closed because the fire is burning low?

One of the most pernicious habits or practices cultivated by folks with the senile turn of mind is overheating the air of dwellings. When the household temperature is maintained at a point well above 68 degrees F., unless some exceptionally efficient method of moistening the air is employed, the atmosphere becomes dryer than the parched air of the desert and the delicate mucous membrane of the breathing passages can't endure such unnatural dryness long without suffering damage. So here you have the important predisposing factor of chronic bronchitis and winter cough in a majority of cases. It is a curious fact that a household temperature of 65 degrees F. by artificial heat ordinarily feels more than comfortable, less "chilly," to a sedentary person or one much confined indoors, than does such a temperature kept up to or above 75 degrees, for the reason that the moderate heating does not dry out the air so excessively as does the excessive heating. This is difficult to believe until you try it out for yourself.

By all odds the best cough cure I know for the winter cough of the aged is two miles of oxygen on the roof three times a day and the weather being well, to sit politely ignored. Two miles thrice daily is a fair average dose of oxygen, you understand. I do not urge any semi-invalid to crawl out of his bed and attempt to tap off two miles three times the first day of his open air life. If you have cultivated the chimney corner habit for months and years you must break the habit by gentle, easy stages, but you must break it. Six miles of oxygen will make a wonderful difference in the way the vital fire burns, and will help a lot toward keeping you nice and warm. Besides, it takes you out of the Sahara atmosphere for two hours and that in itself is something worth while.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Frequent Nose Bleed
My daughter, aged 8, has nosebleed almost every day or at night before going to bed. It doesn't bleed a great deal, but is there any way to prevent it?—(Mrs. L. D. A.)

Answer—The usual cause of such nosebleeds is a small ulcer on the cartilage between the nostrils perhaps produced by a finger nail, and this ulcer must be authorized by a physician in order to prevent the bleeding.

The Calories In Food

Will you kindly tell me where I may obtain a list of foods giving the nutritive or caloric values?—(Mrs. C. J. M.)

Answer—Bulletin 28, of the agricultural department, "The Chemistry of American Food Materials," gives the caloric values and analysis of all ordinary foods. A copy may be obtained by sending ten cents in coin to the superintendent of documents, government printing office, Washington, D. C.

Correction Of Saddle Nose

I have a saddle nose, the result of syphilis. Would paraffin injection bring it back to normal shape again?—(T. C. E.)

Answer—I should not advise paraffin injection as it is too dangerous. If the syphilis is arrested, an operation may be done to improve the appearance of the nose.

JUSTIFICATION PLEA IN MURDER CASES FLOUTS LAW

There are evidences that the country is getting somewhat tired of the "appeal of the unwritten law." Editors rather frankly admit that they witness "with growing alarm" the increasing disposition to allow murderers and murderers to go free simply because they urge, in extenuation of their crimes, the "fatal triangle" suggestion first brought forth in pre-historic days. The added complication, the presence of women on the jury, apparently has not helped. This is best indicated, according to the editorial opinion of the nation, through the verdict in the recent trial in which the woman who was indicted slayer, and those indicted with him as accomplices, were acquitted by, not alone a "mixed jury," but by what well was characterized as a "fifty-fifty jury, on which men and women were equally divided. Capping the climax, in the opinion of most editors, was the turning loose of "Peggy" Bear in Kansas City although her defense consisted entirely of a "sex plea," in which "shock" love, which ever that is, was the main argument in her favor, and she not alone admitted the murder but emphasized a plea of justification. Quite naturally, the editors say, the "usual force of insanity was raised," but in her own story the man-killer admitted she felt certain that she was justified in all she did.

Suggesting that such a defense may be all right, the Springfield LEADER rather quietly asks whether, "since" Peggy had the right to kill Anderson, it is strange the country has the right to dynamite strike breakers," while the Jersey JOURNAL, after recalling that Judge Parker, who presided in the New Jersey trial when George Cline, the admitted slayer, Alice Thornton and Charles Scullion accused accomplices were acquitted of the murder of, and the assisting in the slaying of John Bergen, motion picture actor, insisting in effect on a conviction, "dared" there was nothing presented to uphold the theory of either self-defense or justifiable homicide," points out that "the unwritten law gets fresh support at the hands of a jury of which a woman was foreman and on which there sat an equal number of men and women, something entirely new in New Jersey capital cases."

The Brooklyn EAGLE believes, that "the addition of women to juries will make little difference," while the Memphis COMMERCIAL APPEAL feels impelled, in thinking of the result at Kansas City, to demand "why not establish some sort of a pension, or, at least, some sort of a medal for a woman who takes lives?" In this latter connection the Hoboken, HUDSON OBSERVER, holds that, while "of course the verdict in the Bergen case does not prove that women jurors will be any more swayed by the unwritten law than have male jurors in the past, it does show that the sex can be made successfully to women as it has been made to men." To add to the uncertainty of murder penalties the South Bend TRIBUNE points out that in California a man has been absolved by a coroner's jury for "killing an unfaithful wife" and it suggests that "California juries have had an unaccountable disinclination for convicting any person, especially a pretty woman, of murder. Its revolving mysteries and unsolved cases are smoothed over. The record of the last three or four years in California suggests that the good people out there are not deeply touched by the defiance for or contempt of the law." These verdicts all make for general flouting of the law by citizens, the Denver NEWS points out, because "if man as an individual and man as an organization are going to determine when the law shall be ignored, there is no grave danger that the republic may head itself for the runaway down which Russia traveled with such rapidity." In the Jersey case, the Pittsburgh LEADER likewise would like to know, "what becomes of the 'sex stuff' in this case? Certainly the six men cannot be accused of sex sympathy with more reason than the six women can be charged with that condition because they voted the way they did. If one verdict were a firm criterion upon which to form conviction, that conclusion would be that as jurors women give no more promise of introducing a higher moral consideration into criminal court verdicts than men have shown. Were they in this instance swayed more by the moral conceptions involved than by the facts and the plea of self-defense? Did they act upon the assumption that the man who corrupts, or tries to corrupt, the wife of a friend deserves to be killed? If not that, what? When a man is invited to a friend's home, and is killed there, that is murder unless all the facts prove beyond question that the victim of death wounds was the aggressor in the affray which cut short his life."

With nine alleged murderers on trial at one time in the United States, the Washington POST suggests that "it is high time that the law should be enforced against the female offenders when they take their oaths and listen to the evidence," and the Springfield, ILL. STATE JOURNAL holds that "predatory passion, predatory love, predatory smoking guns, and predatory women's hands are not to be smothered at for some time to come." De-fending the CALIFORNIA situation, the San Francisco CALLETTIN points out that in the "particular instance complained of," the verdicts of coronor's juries are not final. The taking of human life is too serious to be dismissed without a thorough investigation and a proper trial. "Only one fact outstands in the consideration of the Cline acquittal, the Worcester GAZETTE cynically remarks and that is that "the shooting of the ladies usually get away with it, but the men who avenge their grimy honor usually are not so fortunate. There is no particular moral to be drawn from this particular case. It seems to indicate, however that if all concerned in an affair of this kind are low brows and sordid enough almost any twelve men and women will decide that the removal of one of them is small loss."

Then again the Danville REGISTER holds that "even, if husbands prove Lethargies or are grossly indifferent to their wives that does not justify a woman in committing an even worse and more despicable crime," while the Binghamton SUN points out that "the fool idea that a slap on the wrist or a warning shake of the forefinger is enough to do to a murderer, seems to have been taken seriously. Coddling criminals moves them to keep on committing crimes. The statistics prove it. The manner in which criminal law is enforced in the United States proves one thing at least: they do things better in Great Britain than we do here." This position has the endorsement of the Springfield, Mo. LEADER which recalls that "any sort of defense at all will get by in the American courts nowadays. One murderer pleads: 'I am my sister's keeper,' and goes free in 45 minutes. A minister and a choir singer transgress the laws of society, are slain and society of the town enters into a conspiracy to foil justice. A former chorus girl beats out her rival's brains with a hammer and enters a double-plea of emotional insanity and epilepsy. What does it all mean and what are we coming to? There is no telling for, unless American jurors come to take a more serious view of the crime of murder, there will be no end to these deeds of love madness. A few good old-fashioned hangings are sorely needed to put the fear of God into the hearts of those who would slay."

EMIGRATION IN MASSES

Berlin—Writing in the BERLINER TAGBLATT, Professor Dr. Haberle, from the Heidelberg University compares the present increased desire for emigration from Germany, to the migration of peoples which took place in 1709 from the Palatinate.

"The very comprehensible desire that many people in Germany have at the present time, to emigrate on account of the unfortunate situation at home, recalls an event, which, with the Israelites departure from Egypt, perhaps stands alone in history, viz., the emigration in masses from the Palatinate in 1709.

"The actual reasons for this extraordinary exodus—32,400 persons are supposed to have emigrated from the Palatinate at that time—have never been discovered, but it is known that at the beginning of the 18th century this rich land was the scene of hostile engagements and the slightest impetuosity was sufficient to cause those people, who had been brought to desperation by religious persecutions, plundering, and bad government, to seek their fortune in other lands. They turned their eyes toward America, which appeared to them as a new Canaan. It was at that time that the colony of Pennsylvania had just been founded by William Penn, and hands were needed for colonization. Penn's agents were busy recruiting in South West Germany and tried in every way to awake interest in the promised land. Already in 1706 Pfarrer Koeter, that emigrated to America from Landau with 60 persons where they were very well received.

"Then came the winter of 1708-9 with terrible cold. The wind froze in the canals, and birds fell from the air, the wine culture, at that time the principal industry of the Palatinate peasants, was completely ruined for years to come. The fields remained uncultivated, there was no fodder for the cattle, and no manure for the field. Thus terrible misery was added to the religious, political and economic persecutions which made the people disgusted with their home.

"The emigration fever came over the people like an epidemic. The spring of 1709 numbers of people departed from their homes on the Rhine. Large numbers went to Rotterdam where they waited in thousands to continue their journey to England, hoping from there to sail for America. This lasted until the middle of October and the authorities were quite powerless to prevent it. The Dutch authorities were not best pleased at this mass of uninvited guests and did what they could to send them as soon as possible to England. In May 1709 the first ones arrived there, and at the end of June many thousands followed. At first the English were astonished and collected money for the poor emigrants. But as new swarms followed, all desiring to go to America, they did their best to get rid of these uninvited guests as soon as possible.

"The number of emigrants were reckoned between 15 and 16 thousand consisting of men, women and children of all kinds of trades and professions, who all without exception laid claim to private and state charity. They were generously provided with money, clothing, boots, fuel and food, and lodged in quarters near Greenwich.

"When the winter was over, during which many thousand perished, the emigrants were divided up and sent to different parts of England, and other countries. Many of them found work in London as street sweepers and rat catchers. 332 joined the army, and navy, and 2,688 emigrated to cultivate waste land, but 800 of these afterwards returned home. Some of the families were sent to Jamaica where they were finally employed as slaves in the plantations.

"Out of all these emigrants only 3,086 attained their original aim and were sent in ten ships to New York where they were to obtain pitch and tar for the English fleet and protect the frontier from the French and the Indian allies. They had hoped to obtain land to colonize for themselves but were disappointed. Many of them moved afterwards to Pennsylvania where people were needed to colonize the land, and where the emigrants were received with open arms."

We'd like to have the Mayor of Appleton see these Overcoats!

No, Your Honor, not for the mere sake of a sale—but more to show the earnest support we are giving you and your constituents in their demand for lower living prices in Appleton.

We'll admit that it would be highly pleasing to us to see the Father of our City heading the next parade down College Avenue in a Campus Tog coat—and we'll say frankly that the combination would be a credit to Appleton—but the gist of our message today is this:

We would like to demonstrate to you, as chief executive of our city the increased purchasing power of the Campus Togs 1922 dollar.

You would honor us Your Honor, if you would accept this invitation.

Detectives Need Cops

Daring cracksmen burglarize London headquarters of Scotland Yard, world's most famous organization of detectives.

The burglars cart away many fur coats, fancy umbrellas and pieces of jewelry from the Lost Property Office, where missing articles are held for identification by owners. A London newspaper with a "musty" sense of humor hints that the "Yard" may take out insurance policies to protect personal property of the detectives.

This should get a chuckle out of American police, chafing under criticism.

Interesting new book is Sir J. Rennell's "Social and Diplomatic Memories, 1884-93." He quotes Bismarck as saying:

"I want your countrymen to know that it was I, and only I, who alone made this German Empire. And now do you think I accomplished this? How did I succeed in crushing every man who stood in my way? All this I achieved through cunning. I set one man against another, and again and again I broke them."

That was Bismarck's "cunning." In Germany, today, you see what it has done. In America we are making similar mistakes, playing man against man.

Sir J. Rennell told, in his memoirs, gives this picture of ex-Kaiser Bill as a youth. "He displayed a somewhat boisterous geniality. It might gratify a certain mentality to be smitten from behind with a tennis racket in previous 'rushes,' women were present—but as washdishes, keepers, eating houses and dance hall girls could not be returned."

That was one of the chief things wrong with Bill all through his career—"the blow could not be returned. The return blows, however, gradually piled up into a knockout."

The London Daily Mail says editorially: "Our information is that while Germany is doing her utmost to avoid a just payment of reparations, she is stealthily preparing for a renewal of hostilities. There is in existence, Germany an elaborate process of secret enlistment, together with larger stores of munitions than Berlin will admit or than Downing street suspects."

Alfred Durieu, Frenchman, 31 years old, he had cancer of the stomach. The fear became an obsession. To cure himself he began rigid dieting.

Now he is dead. The autopsy reveals that he had no cancer, and that death was due to starvation. Getting back to that, death was due to fear—to imagination. Fear, a mental illness, is one of the deadliest diseases. To help conquer it, read Basil King's new book, "The Conqueror of Fear."

South Africa cables that the Transvaal has just had the biggest diamond rush in its history, a new field has been opened up at Kasiaplaas. A crack of a pistol, off rushed 3,000 claimseers, lined in a row over mile long.

Included in the rush were hundreds of women who, making their own living, were anxious to dig for diamonds. It is something new under the sun. In previous "rushes," women were present—but as washdishes, keepers, eating houses and dance hall girls could not be returned. What will they do next?

Q. Where is the largest American flag? E. C. D.

A. Probably the largest American flag in continuous use in the United States is in the court of the Post Office Department on Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D. C. It is suspended from the level of the eighth floor and reaches to the third floor. It weighs 90 pounds. The measurements show the flag to have a fly 470 feet 4 inches and a hoist of 2 feet. The field is 20 feet by 25 feet. The stars measure 30 inches between the tips, and the strips are nearly on yard wide.

Q. How did the American Indians make their flint arrowheads? V. V.

A. The Indian Office says that generally arrowheads were made by using a hollow horn. The piece of flint was placed in the horn, the bottom of the horn squeezed together slightly as possible, and the flint chipped off to the desired shape with a harder stone.

NOT A CANDIDATE OF CLASS, GRAASS SAYS AT KAUKAUNA

Independent Candidate For Congress Speaks To Kaukauna Audience

Kaukauna—Judge Henry Graass, Green Bay, Independent candidate for congress, told an audience of about 200 persons in the auditorium here Saturday night that he is for every class of Americans and he urged the voters to study carefully the candidates seeking election to congress and to vote for the men they feel will serve them best.

Mayor C. E. Raught introduced the judge. The candidate declared he bears no animosity toward Senator LaFollette, in spite of the latter's abuse of him in his campaign and said also he was a LaFollette supporter until his war record stopped him but he still is favorable to many of the things for which LaFollette has worked.

"I am not here to talk politics or to run down my opponents," said the judge. "I am fighting for the public school systems, my family and children and my children's children. I am fighting for the constitution of the United States, the greatest and best document ever penned by the hand of man. I am asking no favors. When I have finished my talk I want you to consider both candidates and vote for the better one."

"I consented to become a candidate for office only after consistent urging on the part of over 3,200 voters all over the district who signed petitions asking me to run. By leaving the judicial bench I am running for a job with no better pay, more frequent elections and increased expense on my part. On the bench I am with my family in the evening. In Congress, I am alone. I am a poor man and cannot afford to take my wife and children to Washington."

"I am in this race to redeem the Ninth district from radicalism. My opponents attack my eligibility to office. If I am ineligible why do they send half a hundred speakers into this district to abuse me and to attempt to deceive the voters?"

"I was defeated in the primary and some may say I ought to abide by it. But I taught me not to. Every district gets the same kind of congressman it wants and every district gets the man it deserves."

"Schneider says 'I am for labor.' I also am for labor, but this country isn't for labor alone. Labor has its place along with the farmer, the capitalist and others. In my platform I have placed the farmer first. The farmer is the source of all production and he is probably the best spender we have when he has money. He raises crops, sells his products and makes business for the wholesaler. The wholesaler must replenish his stock when he orders from the manufacturer who in turn can give work to the laboring man."

"My platform, signed by me, has been passed among you. You know just how I stand. How does my opponent stand? Have you ever heard a word of his platform? Next Tuesday you are to vote. I ask you to vote for the man who in your opinion is best suited for the office. I will be satisfied with the result."

FARMERS DEMAND PAY FOR TAKING KIDS TO SCHOOL

Supreme Court Probably Will Rule On School Board's
Liabilities

A state wide fight by farmers to force district school boards to pay them for taking their own children to school may necessitate a ruling by the supreme court to finally settle the controversy between individuals and communities.

State legislation provides where farmers live two miles or more from town schools that the town must provide for transportation or room and board for the children, or the parents can collect 40 cents a day for every child that a parent takes to the community seat of learning.

The law provides that the conveyance in which the children are carried must be "safe and comfortable." Banking on this phrase a number of school boards have refused to allow claims of residents living on the outskirts of townships.

Asa Ilgen, school district 7 town of Bristol, Dane co., transported a child to school from beyond the 2 mile limit during the year and claimed $80 remuneration.

It is said that the child is a surfer from which the top had been removed. During cold weather he used hot bricks to keep the child warm while it huddled in the rug.

The board declined payment of the $80 on the claim that the surfer was not a "proper conveyance."

The case was taken up with a San Prairie justice of the peace and was lost and then was appealed to superior court at Madison where it will probably come up for trial next month. The outcome of the case is being watched with a great deal of interest by farmers throughout the state.

INHERITANCE TAXES TOTAL $2,000,000

Milwaukee Man Leaves Estate
Valued At More Than $7,000,000

That collection of inheritance taxes by the state for the fiscal year ending June 30 1923 will approach near $2,000,000 is the anticipation of John Harrington, inheritance counsel for the state tax commission.

During the past three fiscal years the receipts from inheritance tax collections by the state were as follows:

Year ending June 30 1920 $1,115,643.85
June 30 1921 $1,264,456.73
June 30 1922 $1,188,485.08

Mr. Harrington expects that a revision in the inheritance tax law by the last legislature will result in increased revenue. He is not yet in possession of the report for the quarter ending Sept. 30 so he is unable to estimate just what effect the revision has had on taxes but he believes that the total collections for the state will reach about $500,000 for the quarter.

Counties retain seven and one-half per cent of all inheritance taxes collected by them according to law, and the remainder is turned over to the state. According to Mr. Harrington, however, the actual amount received by the state is only 40 per cent as besides retaining seven and one-half per cent each county also keeps two and one-half per cent for administration of the inheritance tax law, such as compensation to the public administrator, witness fees and other expenses.

Among the big estates still pending is the Schlesinger estate of Milwaukee which already has made a tentative payment of $295,000. As far as Mr. Harrington knows the property of the estate is worth $7,500,000. Claims of over $1,000,000 have been filed against the estate but the validity of these will soon be determined in court according to Mr. Harrington. Another big estate still unsettled is that of the late Albert H. Gallun, Milwaukee. While Mr. Harrington has no definite information as to the worth of the property, he believes the estate is valued at over $2,000,000 which would yield a tax of about $200,000.

Determination of the inheritance tax of the late William Rockefeller has not been completed. Mr. Rockefeller owned 50,000 shares of stock in the Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway company according to information in the hands of Mr. Harrington, which means that an inheritance tax will be collected on about $4,000,000.

OPPOSE 'EXCHANGE' ON BANK CHECKS

The chamber of commerce of the United States is committed to the proposition that remittance of checks at par should be a universal banking practice in this country as the result of a referendum vote of its member organizations, completion of which has just been announced. The preliminary count showed 1,735 votes in favor of the proposition and 723 votes recorded in the negative.

The referendum, according to a letter received from headquarters by Hugh G. Corbett, managing secretary of the chamber of commerce, was based upon a report made to the national chamber by a special committee which made a study of the subject. In the opinion of the committee, the practice of certain banks in making a service charge, usually one-eighth or one-tenth of one per cent, in remitting in payment of checks drawn upon them by their depositors should be discontinued.

DENY BUILDER WAS VICTIM OF ATTACK

Denial that Theodore Froemming, 49 a Milwaukee contractor who did the excavation for the new buildings erected by Brettschneider Furniture Co. and the Aid Association For Lutherans was the victim of assault when injured on the night of Oct. 22 in a North Ave. saloon in that city was made Friday night by Capt. Harry McCort, chief of detectives.

Froemming, who for the last fortnight has been in a serious condition in his home at 1288 Humbolt ave., regained sufficient consciousness on Friday according to the captain to give a coherent account of his injuries.

Arising from a table in the saloon he is said to have told the detective he started to cross the room, but tripped and fell injuring his head. He went back to the table sat down and became unconscious. Believing him to be asleep the attendants in the saloon did not disturb him until closing time when his condition was finally known.

Physicians believe he will live. Mr. Froemming is president of the Froemming & Ratke Co. and spent the greater part of the summer of 1921 in Appleton where he became quite well acquainted.

Instant Quaker Oats

Cooks to perfection in
3 to 5 minutes

Now our experts have perfected a quick-cooking Quaker Oats—the quickest-cooking oats in the world.

It cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. It is the quickest-cooking oats in the world.

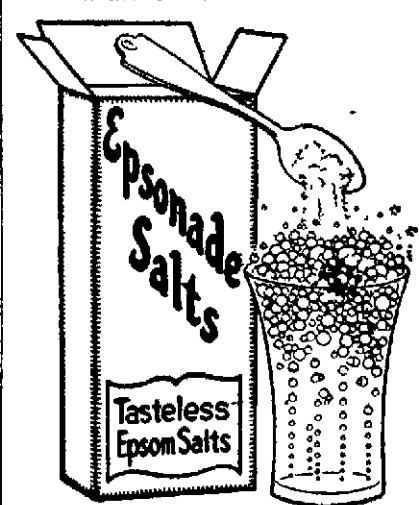

The same super-quality, the same exquisite flavor. All Quaker Oats are flaked from queen grains only.

But for Instant Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small thin flakes cook quickly.

Grocers now have both styles. But Instant Quaker is marked Instant on the label. Get that if you want quick cooking. No other oats on the market cook nearly so quickly as these.

FAILURE IN ONE STUDY DOES NOT MEAN YEAR LOST

Third District Schools' Work Out New System Of Promoting Students

Unless a student in the Third district schools is delinquent in most of his studies, he does not have to remain in one grade to years. The studies have been arranged for the convenience of the students by having all of them in the different grades at the same time. A student who fails in arithmetic in the fourth grade, but passes in his other subjects may go on into the fifth grade and take his fourth grade arithmetic again.

It is estimated that if a child remains in a grade two years it will cost the city the price of his year's instruction which is rated at about $60 in this state. It will also cost his parents more than $200 to keep him during that year. The old plan of keeping a student back a year was an economic waste of more than $260 and has been eliminated by a careful planning of the curricula. As early as the first grade in the Third district schools the children have their numbers at the time when the children in the upper grades are having arithmetic. It is the same with language reading, stories of great men

TWO MORE ARTIST NUMBERS COMING

Two musical numbers of the Community Lecture and Artist series will follow each other in less than a week and will make three of the series within ten days. The Adanac Male quartet, organized in the Dominion of Canada several years ago, will appear at Lawrence Memorial chapel on Wednesday evening while Jacques Thibaud, the greatest French violinist, will appear on the following Monday evening. Then there will not be a number of the series until Jan. 22, 1923, when Louis Gravelle will sing.

In Canadian Musical circles, the Adanac quartet has won considerable reputation for pleasing programs. It is one of the few quartets of soloists which sing well ensemble. Because of the individuality of artists singing it is hard to find four of them all with recognized soloist accomplishments, who can get the same blend and unanimity of tone that is essential for a quartet.

which in time are worked up into history and civics.

Many children who have been backward in grammar in the lower grades will be able to make up the work by the time they have reached eighth grade through the supervised study periods during which the teacher is able to give individual attention to the students who need help. By means of tests of various kinds the teachers are able to find out where a child is weak in his work and why. Then during the supervised periods of study they can help him and strengthen his weak points.

FOIL ATTEMPT TO CLOSE CINCO LAKE

Through definite orders of the state conservation commission Cinco lake, near Gills Landing has again been opened to hunters and fishermen. Complaint was made by Alan H. Tripp of Oshkosh, president of the Association for Relief of High Waters to whom it had been reported that the public had been barred from that waterway.

The report was that a wire fence had been placed across the entrance to the lake and sunken logs placed there to prevent boats from passing through. It was reported also that the fence was proving an obstruction to fish going there to spawn.

Mr. Tripp made an investigation on Sept. 17 and found the situation as reported. At the entrance of the lake he found a wire fence and a sign which read, "No hunting, trapping or trespassing allowed on these premises unless you have the privilege from the owner Henry L. Gamsky."

On the following Sunday Mr. Tripp made another investigation and found that the wire netting had been cut but the sunken logs were a barrier and the same sign was in place. He had photographs made and forwarded them to the conservation commission which expressed appreciation for his having called attention to the matter.

Opposition to the selection of Chris Lindgard of Escanaba as flagman at North Division at crossing to succeed Michael Good who retired because of having reached the age limit has arisen because of seniority rights of local flagmen who claim they should be considered. The matter has been referred to proper union officials.

On the following Sunday Mr. Tripp made another investigation and found that the wire netting had been cut but the sunken logs were a barrier and the same sign was in place. Do You Want Your Pocket Picked?

Well, that's exactly what will happen to you unless you watch your step when you go to the polls on November 7.

You are going to be asked to amend the State Constitution so as to permit any municipality to double its indebtedness, to acquire or build street railway properties, to buy properties for the production, transmission, delivery, or furnishing of light, heat, water or power to the public.

This means that 276 million dollars worth of property on which taxes are now being paid will become tax-exempt. Who will pay the taxes to the State and to the Government on that 276 million dollars? You will, Mr. Voter. You will fill up that money hole if you are sucker enough to vote "Yes" on this Amendment.

Get mad about being called a "sucker." Get mad enough to vote "No" on the most vicious piece of legislation that has been proposed since "Grape-juice" Bill Bryan pulled his unsafe, unsound, ridiculous 16 to 1 stuff.

If this Amendment passes it gives the politicians a free rein to buy a lot of broken-down utilities at fabulous prices, with your money.

The next step in the program is that the bonds now outstanding on these properties, and that would be issued by the municipalities to finance operations, would be tax-exempt.

Do you know just what tax-exempt means? It means a perfectly legal way for the millionaires to invest their money to avoid paying taxes.

But you, Mr. Farmer, Mr. Salaried-man, Mr. Cottage-owner, Mr. Laborer, you pay the taxes that they escape.

True, the bankers and the bond men will make a lot of money out of selling the new crop of tax-free securities, but there isn't any real good reason why you should line their pockets while yours are being picked.

Don't let anybody fool you into thinking that your increased taxes will be offset by a reduction in the cost of light, heat, power, water, or transportation. You recall how the railroads were operated by-guess and by-god during the war. You remember that ships which cost a couple of hundred thousand dollars each were sold by the Emergency Fleet Corporation for as low as $600.00 apiece.

You know that public-built utilities are built and developed at fancy prices that a private institution would never dream of paying. How do they get away with it? By the people casting their votes without thinking. By the voters authorizing a lot of tricky, shrewd, grafting politicians to make expenditures such as are proposed under the Amendment on the Pink Ballot.

CAMPAIGN SUMMARIES

Circumstances of local importance rule the campaign issues in the various sections of the country which are being wound up by the political spellbinders Monday, prior to the voting Tuesday. Here are reports, as gathered by the Associated Press, from the east, west, south and north.

MINNESOTA

By Associated Press
St. Paul, Minn. — Election — The third prominent Wisconsin official to campaign in Minnesota, United States Senator Irvine L. Lenroot—accompanied Senator F. B. Kellogg and Governor J. A. O. Preus to northern Minnesota Monday in their final appeal for reelection. Senator Lenroot asked to be permitted to speak for the Republican ticket in this state to reply to attacks on Senator Kellogg by Senator R. M. LaFollette of Wisconsin who with Governor J. J. Blaine of the Badger state, wound up a tour in behalf of Dr. Henrik Shipstead farmer-labor candidate for the senatorship held by Kellogg. Mrs. Anna Dickie Olesen, of Cloquet, Democratic candidate in the three-cornered senatorial race, and Minnesota's first woman to be nominated for that office, finished a strenuous vote-seeking automobile trip of several thousand miles.

Aside from the senatorship, contests of national importance to be decided Tuesday include that between Representative A. J. Volstead of the seventh Minnesota congressional district, author of the prohibition enforcement act, who is opposed by Rev. O. J. Kvale, Independent. The latter defeated Volstead two years ago in the primaries but was disqualified and later lost in the general election. Representatives Chas. R. Davis of the Third District is opposed by Mrs. William Cox Gault, Democrat, former mayor of St. Peter.

NEW YORK

New York — The hectic day before election was being devoted to concentration on candidates in eastern states for congress and governor.

Rival party workers in New York state, spurred to unusually energetic labor by the bitter contest for the governorship between Governor Miller and A. E. Smith, his Democratic adversary, were carrying on the battle doggedly.

The claim of the Democrats that Smith's vote in greater New York will greatly overcome the governor's upstate plurality has aroused city Republicans to extended efforts.

The confidence of Democratic leaders in predicting a landslide for Smith, who, they expect will carry in the entire state ticket, has had the effect of stimulating the republicans.

In New Jersey Governor Edwards opposes Senator Frelinghuysen who is seeking reelection.

The Massachusetts contest between Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican leader of the Senate, whose seat is sought by William A. Gaston, Boston banker and the senatorial contest in Rhode Island between Senator Gertrude, Democrat and former Governor Beckman share interest with the New York and New Jersey campaign.

IN THE WEST

San Francisco — Citizens of the far western states will vote tomorrow to fill practically all the federal and state offices within their control. They also will decide numerous initiative measures.

One United States Senator representing each of these states—Utah, Wyoming, Nevada, Washington, New Mexico, Arizona and California—is running for reelection. In Montana however the name of Senator H. L. Myers is not on the ballot and three nominees are seeking his place. Oregon, Idaho and Colorado do not elect senators this year.

The governors of Arizona and Oregon ask reelection. The other Pacific slope states selecting governors at this time have only new candidates on the ballot.

MICHIGAN

Detroit, Mich. — A prediction that U. S. Senator Charles E. Townsend, Republican nominee for reelection would win in Tuesday's statewide election by between 20,000 and 100,000 votes was made here Monday by the Republican state central committee and was countered from the Democratic state headquarters by a prediction that former Governor W. N. Ferris, Democratic have been classed as wet by the anti-saloon league and 28 have been classed as dry.

Mrs. Virginia D. Greene of Cleveland is an independent candidate for United States Senator.

Leaders of both parties agree that the result of the vote in Ohio will be an endorsement or a rejection of President Harding's administration by the voters of his home state.

IN THE SOUTH

Atlanta, Ga. — Election of Senators in five states—Virginia, Florida, Georgia, Tennessee and Mississippi—will feature the voting in the southern states Tuesday. In addition four southern states will name governors—Tennessee, Alabama, South Carolina and Georgia.

With practically all elections in the south virtually settled at the various state primaries interest was attracted to Tennessee and several congressional districts in Alabama, North Carolina and Virginia where the Republicans are making a strong bid for power.

Tennessee furnished the real battleground for the Republicans in this section. Senator K. D. McKellar, Democratic incumbent, is opposed by Newell Sanders of Chattanooga, Republican, while Governor Alf Taylor, Republican is opposed by Austin Pray of Clarksville. Two years ago the Republicans, besides electing a governor and giving a majority to the presidential candidate increased the Republican representation to five.

The Plumb Line

The Plumb line carries weight. The merchant or manufacturer who measures the uprightness of his advertising with the Plumb line of accuracy will always be able to pick the "plums" of patronage.

"Straight as a string" was written about a line with a plumb on the end of it. A story about goods that is that straight has no camouflage nor exaggeration connected with it: it just tells the plain truth without veneer.

Business building is like any other kind of building—it must be plumb to command respect. Those who "look over" the work when it is finished and ready for inspection, can tell at a glance whether it is straight or crooked.

Wise business builders never let the Plumb line of advertising get tangled. The goods, like the timbers of the building of wood or the bricks of the heavier structure, MUST be true. So must advertising if the vendor would continue to thrive.

We thoroly believe in the principle of "Truth in Advertising" and consequently associated ourselves with the Advertising Club of Appleton which is fostering this international movement in this city.

SAFEST WAY TO GET RID OF A COLD

Take Father John's Medicine

If you have a cold and start taking "immediate relief" medicines, you are gambling with health and even life itself. Such medicines depend upon narcotics which paralyze the nerves and allow the cold to become deeply seated in your system. The logical way to treat a cold is by using Father John's Medicine, which gives strength to throw off the impurities, soothes and heals the lining of the breathing passages, and in the natural way helps your system to entirely get rid of the cold.

The basis of Father John's Medicine has always been cod liver oil, and by our scientific process it is so compounded with other ingredients that it is readily taken up by a weakened digestive system. It is guaranteed free from narcotic drugs or stimulants.

Is George Schneider
the friend to the laboring man his supporters
would have you believe?

Has he played square with the laboring man in the strikes he has led them into?

I submit these letters written by men who were in the paper mill strike in Green Bay in the spring of 1921, which strike was called by George Schneider and managed by him.

These letters were published in the "Peoples Forum" of The Green Bay Press-Gazette, and were voluntary correspondence.

Read them and draw your own conclusions.

Strikers Got No Money

Editor, Press-Gazette — I was one of the strikers at the Hoberg Mill in the Spring of 1921. I hear of the statements of George Schneider that the strikers received their benefits out of the strike fund. I want to say I did not receive one cent out of the strike fund, and I do not know one striker that did receive one cent when our families needed it.

A Papermill Striker

Green Bay, Nov. 2, 1922.

Another Striker Tells His Story

Editor, Press-Gazette — "Paper Mill Striker" is not the only one who got stung in 1921. If George Schneider is telling strangers all the union members got strike benefits he is lying. We went on strike expecting to get help. We were told to do picket duty for $1.00 a day. Some new members were kindly informed that members less than six months draw no benefits. But it is common talk, which broke up the union, that some on the inside got more than their share.

Strike benefits were in the shape of orders on grocers. Ask some grocers who got stung and the poor devils threatened with garnishee for strike bills, what they think of these benefits. Who got all this money Schneider talks about and how much was there? Most of us never knew how much was collected or how it was spent.

Schneider's friends are telling the women voters that if the paper makers had taken his advice there never would have been a strike. It is to laugh. The game was to scare the companies by a threat to strike. When the bluff was called there was nothing to do but strike. Ask the Northern who gave the order to fire only 40 pounds of steam.

There are lots of us who quit, not against unions, but we are against bolsheviks who stand for nobody but Number 1. I don't want George Schneider in congress until he cleans up the mess he made of the strike.

Many false charges have been made against my friend Henry Graass, but I know Henry Graass well enough to say to every laboring man that he will give you a square deal under all conditions and circumstances. Henry Graass has made his own way up the ladder. He started as a common laborer sawing shingles in a sawmill. He worked his way through college. If you send Henry Graass to congress time will prove that the common people will never have a better friend or champion [Signed] James H. McGillan
